

ARGENTINIANS TO GO HOME THIS WEEK; DELEGATES CRITICISE THEM

Most of Representatives at Geneva Said to Regard Withdrawal as Error—Lord Cecil Speaks in Opposition to Pueyrredon's Stand.

AMENDMENTS GO OVER TO NEXT SESSION

Declaration Adopted Providing That Either Council or Assembly May Examine Any Question Within League Jurisdiction.

By the Associated Press. GENEVA, Dec. 6.—Argentina's amendment to the covenant of the League of Nations, rejection of which caused the delegation of that country to leave the assembly Saturday morning, has been referred to the assembly for consideration at its next session. Honorio Pueyrredon, head of the Argentine mission, told the Associated Press today that his delegation would depart for Paris on Wednesday or Thursday.

"Today's decision of the assembly finally settles the question for Argentina," he said. "I shall make a few calls, give several lectures and leave for home the middle of the week. I was willing to consent to the postponement of all Argentina's amendments except those regarding the admission of all states and the election of the four permanent members of the council, but the assembly has seen fit to resort to a technicality of procedure in a matter vital to the life of the league. I am sure American public opinion is with us in this matter, and I have already received indication of this in a cablegram from Chicago."

May Retire From League. Senator Pueyrredon intimated the withdrawal of Argentina from the assembly might be followed shortly by a formal announcement of that country's intention to retire from the league itself.

Consideration of an amendment to the covenant of the League of Nations which would eliminate article 10 has been postponed by the assembly until the next meeting. This amendment, which was proposed by C. J. Doherty, a member of the Canadian delegation, has been referred to a committee, which has been instructed to submit a report when the assembly holds its next session.

The resolution of the Argentine delegation providing that all sovereign states, unless they remain outside of their own will, shall be recognized as members of the league was the first item on the agenda of the assembly today.

After today's session had opened, Paul Hymans, white president, presented Señor Pueyrredon's letter to the assembly, and said he had expressed personally to the head of the Argentine mission his deep regret at the step it had taken.

Lord Robert Cecil, delegate for the United Kingdom, then took the floor, saying: "If other delegations should be allowed to take the same step when their proposals are not accepted, it would be impossible for the league to make any progress."

"The act of no single country," Lord Robert added, "can diminish our faith in the success of the league, after the great strides that have been made toward the object in view. All that is needed are courage, candor and consideration for one another."

It is declared here that virtually every delegate regards Argentina's action as an error in tactics.

After Lord Robert's address, the assembly proceeded to discuss today's agenda without further reference to the withdrawal of Argentina.

Amendments Go Over. Hjalmar Branting of Sweden, asked that amendment eliminating Article 10 from the covenant of the league, and that presented by the Argentine delegation regarding the admission of all states be sent to committee without debate for study. A report on them will be submitted to the next session of the assembly. A special committee would take them under consideration. This motion was adopted by the assembly.

During the discussion Minister Doherty of Canada said that while the Canadian delegation felt that its amendment was one that might well be discussed now, as the opinion seemed to be that all amendments should be dealt with in the same manner, the Canadian delegation would not insist upon immediate consideration of its proposition.

18 BONDSMEN'S SURETIES EXCEED THEIR ASSESSMENT

Figures Revealed by Comparison of List Compiled by Judge Landwehr With Tax Records.

Judge Landwehr of Criminal Division 10 of the Circuit Court today, after charging the new grand jury to investigate as to qualifications of bondsmen in criminal cases, sent to Clerk Bader of the Criminal Court a list of all the bondsmen now on the bonds of persons accused of crimes. The list includes the bondsmen on the records of Judge Landwehr's court and of the two Criminal Court divisions and the two Courts of Criminal Correction.

The Judge announced that the purpose of sending the list to the Clerk was to have an easily accessible public record from which it would be possible for any individual or for the grand jury to compare the bondsmen's statements of their qualifications with the total amounts of bonds on which they have been accepted as sureties.

What the List Shows. Most of the bonds listed were accepted before the judges now serving in the Criminal Court divisions were assigned to duty there.

Judge Landwehr's list shows only the amount of bonds on which each bondsmen has been accepted as surety. Qualifications are based on the amount of realty owned by the bondsmen. A Post-Dispatch reporter looked up each of the bondsmen in the assessment books and learned the assessed valuation of the realty which they owned when this year's tax assessment was made. In some cases it was found that the assessed property of bondsmen was much smaller in value than the amount of the bonds on which they are sureties.

In a verbal statement to the grand jury after giving his formal instructions Judge Landwehr told them of the record of bondsmen, which he said he started compiling about a month ago and he asked the jurors to inspect the new record system and to offer suggestions for its improvement.

Bonds and Assessments. The list submitted to the Court Clerk by Judge Landwehr and the information obtained as to their assessed property is as follows:

Sam T. Andrews, bonds, $7500; assessment, $12,000.

Ferdinand Buerck, bonds, $5000; assessment, $3850.

James Kearney, bonds, $13,000; assessment, $2770.

IDENTIFIES MAN AS ONE HE SAW BEFORE PAYROLL ROBBERY

Employee of Company Robbed of $10,000 Says He Saw Man When He Left the Office.

Rocco Chinnici, 25 years old, of 2708 Gamble street, was identified today by Albert E. Price, an Englishman employed by the Gibbins & Lohn Dressing and Dyeing Co., 1328 South King's highway, as one of five men whom Price saw entering the hallway leading to the second-floor office of the company. Just before the time of the $10,000 payroll robbery, which took place in the office at 5:40 p. m. Friday.

The men who committed the robbery were blue polka-dot handkerchiefs over the lower part of their faces. The men whom Price saw had their faces uncovered. Price had received his pay and was leaving the building at the time, and he did not learn of the robbery until he was told of it later in the evening at his home.

A Dodge automobile was seen standing near the establishment about the time of the robbery, and the police learned that a Dodge car, owned by Chinnici, had been in an accident on Chouteau avenue Friday evening, and had been hurriedly repaired at a garage. At the time of the accident on Chouteau avenue, according to the police, three of four men who had been riding in the car ran away.

The robbers at the Gibbins & Lohn establishment ordered the five persons in the office to lie face down on the floor while they took the payroll money. Philip B. Fouke, a member of the Police Board, is president of the company, which is a subsidiary of the International Fur Exchange.

Establishment is the dressing and dyeing of sealskins for the United States Government.

NEW GRAND JURY TOLD TO CARRY VOTE INQUIRY ON

Judge Landwehr in Instructions Indicates Investigation May Be Carried to General Election.

CALLS ATTENTION TO MANY HOLDUPS

Directs Jury to Inquire Into Qualifications of Bondsmen, Suggesting False Affidavit Is Perjury.

Circuit Judge Frank Landwehr, in his instructions to the new grand jury, impaneled today, suggested that the investigation of primary election frauds, begun by the last grand jury, might lead to an investigation of the general registration and of the November election. He recommended that, as was urged by the last grand jury, the new grand jury continue the primary investigation, and that it carry the inquiry as far as the developments may warrant.

Judge Landwehr also called attention to the prevalence of crimes of violence, and urged prompt consideration of cases of persons now under arrest, charged with such crimes. He said that, in his opinion, some recent crimes have been committed by men accused or convicted of crime, who have been released on bond. He directed the grand jury to inquire into the qualifications of bondsmen, with the suggestion that a false affidavit to such qualifications constitutes perjury.

Instructions as to Primary. Regarding election matters, Judge Landwehr said in his instructions: "The grand jury which preceded you devoted a considerable portion of its time to an investigation of the manner in which the last primary election was conducted. While it made considerable progress along this line of inquiry, its term of office expired before it had completed its investigations, and the grand jurors, in their final report to the Court, have therefore recommended that you gentlemen take up this inquiry where they left off and carry it on to completion."

"The Court, therefore, wishes to direct your attention to this line of investigation, and in this connection, desires to charge you that, should your investigations disclose any irregularities in the election officials at the last primary lead you on to inquire into the manner in which the general registration of voters, as well as the election itself, held in November of this year, was handled, you should not hesitate to any misconduct to its ultimate conclusion, and do your full duty. Should you ascertain that any individual, or group of individuals, has committed an indictable offense, it is your duty to see that he, or they, is made to account for his, or their, misconduct."

End to Purify Elections. "The end sought to be attained is not to benefit any individual, or group of individuals, but to purify and secure honest registrations, primaries and elections for the City of St. Louis."

"The Court also wishes to direct your attention to the reckless use of automobiles and other motor vehicles on the streets and avenues of this city, and to the great number of deaths that have resulted therefrom. On account of these casualties occurring through such agency, this becomes a matter of serious import, and you are therefore advised that, under the law of this State, the killing of human being, through the culpable negligence of another constitutes manslaughter, and the wounding of any person through such culpable negligence constitutes felonious wounding, either of which offenses may be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary."

RAIN OR SNOW TOMORROW; ABOUT SAME TEMPERATURE

Official forecast for St. Louis and vicinity: Rain tonight; tomorrow rain or snow; not much change in temperature; lowest tonight will be about the freezing point.

Missouri: Rain tonight, slightly colder in west portion; tomorrow, rain, probably rain or snow, somewhat colder in south portion.

PRESIDENT WILSON TO 'COMMUNICATE WITH' CONGRESS

Receives Committee Standing in Blue Room, After Walking 'Briskly' in With a Cane.

'LOOKING VERY WELL; IN GOOD SPIRITS'

Lodge, Underwood and Others Get Impression He Will Not Address Congress in Person.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—President Wilson did not indicate today to the congressional committee whether he would address Congress tomorrow in person. He simply told the committee that came to inform him Congress was in session that he would "communicate with" Congress.

Senator Underwood of Alabama, the Democratic leader in the Senate, described the President as being "in very good spirits," and as looking "very well."

The impression taken away from the White House by the five members of the committee—Senators Lodge and Underwood, and Representatives Mondell, Fordney and Clark—was that the President would not address Congress in person, but would send his message to be read.

The President received the congressional committee standing in the blue room. Former Speaker Champ Clark said the President walked to the room "briskly" but with a cane. It was the first Committee of Notification from the Congress to call upon him and was the first Congressional Committee with one exception to be received by Mr. Wilson since he was taken ill more than a year ago.

Lodge Sees Wilson. Senator Lodge of Massachusetts headed the committee which called at the White House. It was the first meeting between the President and Senator Lodge since before the peace treaty was defeated in the Senate under Senator Lodge's leadership.

President's Announcement. "The President did not shake hands with members of the committee. After the Senators and Representatives had assembled in the Blue Room, the President came from an adjoining room and stood just inside the doorway. Greetings were exchanged and the President announced that he would communicate with Congress tomorrow. The committee then departed."

Representative Mondell said the President, as he entered the blue room, remarked it was "necessary to use his third leg." Senator Lodge acted as spokesman for the committee.

Members of the committee said that the President carried his cane in his right hand and held his left hand against his chest while he saw the committee. One of the visitors said the Executive's voice was "hollo and low," and that the committee members had difficulty in catching the few words he uttered.

COMMITTEE APPROVES REVIVAL OF WAR FINANCE CORPORATION

Joint Resolution to Be Reported Tomorrow to the Senate—Bill for Duty on Wheat.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—A joint resolution directing the reviving of the War Finance Corporation was approved today by the joint Senate and House Committee investigating the agricultural situation and will be reported tomorrow to the Senate. The resolution, if adopted, will require the signature of the President. The measure also would direct the Federal Reserve Board to extend liberal credits to farmers to meet problems resulting from falling prices of their products.

Senators said immediate consideration of the resolution would be asked for and the declared they believed they had enough support to insure its adoption.

Representative Summers of Washington, introduced a bill today proposing duties of 25 cents a bushel on wheat, $1.12 a barrel of 195 pounds on wheat flour and on other wheat products a straight 25-cent ad valorem rate.

MRS. HARDING TO HAVE TEA AT THE WHITE HOUSE

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Mrs. Warren G. Harding, wife of the President-elect, has accepted an invitation from Mrs. Wilson to have tea at the White House this afternoon.

CONGRESS CONVENES; HARDING PRESENT; GALLERIES FILLED

Harding, Addressing Senate, Predicts Better Teamwork; Asks for Democrats' Help

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.

DAY of co-operation and friendly relations between the White House and Congress was forecast by President-elect Harding today in a short address from the floor of the Senate.

Though disclaiming any desire to criticize the present administration, Mr. Harding declared it one of the ambitions of his four years as chief executive to insure better teamwork between the two branches of the Government.

The speech, which did not touch on detailed questions of policy, was delivered by the President-elect in response to an ovation that greeted him when he went to the Senate chamber in his capacity as a Senator and answered to the opening roll call of the new session.

Senator Harding rose to speak after Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the Republican leader, had called attention formally to his presence and asked that he be recognized by the Vice President.

"I am pleased at this greeting by fellow members of the Senate," said Mr. Harding.

"There is still a greater satisfaction in having this opportunity to say to you informally some of the things in my heart which I could utter in no other way. I recognize that I am here today under somewhat unusual circumstances, and there is a delicacy about it that one in my position cannot escape except through some form of self-effacement which does not seem quite possible."

Tribute to the Senate. "No member of this body could be more reluctant to leave it. I may say to this Senate that I came here with very high respect for this body, and I am leaving it with greater respect than that with which I came. If one could always direct his own political fortunes to his liking, I should have preferred my membership here to any office a citizen may hold in this republic or elsewhere in the world."

"Like the great association, the patriotic sense of responsibility which abides here, I am conscious of the great place which Congress holds under our constitution, and particularly sensitive to the obligations of the Senate. When my responsibilities begin in the executive capacity I shall be as mindful of the Senate's responsibilities as I have been zealous of them as a member, but I mean at the same time, to be just as insistent about the responsibilities of the executive. Our governmental good fortune does not lie in any surrender at either end of the avenue, but in the co-ordination and co-operation which becomes the two in a great and truly representative popular government."

"This brings me to the thought particularly in mind. Something has been said about the 'senatorial oligarchy.' Of course, every one here knows that to be a bit of highly imaginative and harmless fiction. But I do recognize how essential is the helpfulness of the Senate in the making of a successful administration."

"I want to express today the wish of a colleague for the confidence and the co-operation of the members of this body in the four years which begin next March 4. I do not limit this sincere request to this side of the aisle. One cannot promise agreement in all things with an opposite party which is sometimes insistently wrong, but we may find common ground in the spirit of service, and I hope for that agreeable and courteous and oft-times helpful relationship with the opposite side which has been the basis of our government since its birth."

After a brief address, Mr. Harding adjourned the session for the day, members crowding around Mr. Harding and keeping him busy for a half hour shaking hands and acknowledging congratulations. As he left the chamber he shook hands with the Senate doorkeepers and greeted other Capitol employees all along the way to Senator Lodge's office, where he later held open house to friends. Many Senators, members of the House and others crowded in for a brief word.

Will H. Egan, chairman of the Republican National Committee, was among those who called at Senator Lodge's room and talked with the President-elect.

Mrs. Harding sat in the senatorial gallery during the Senate address, having slipped in almost unnoticed by spectators soon after the Senate opened.

MUNICIPAL CHRISTMAS TREE CHOPPING EXPEDITION SUNDAY

The annual municipal Christmas tree chopping expedition will start from Lindell boulevard and King's highway at 8:45 a. m. next Sunday. Park Commissioner Pape today sent invitations to many civic, church and charitable organizations to volunteer as choopers.

The party will go by automobile to Dittmer, Mo., near Morse's Mill, on the Gravois road, and will chop 150 trees, which will be purchased by the city and organizations at $1 to $1.50 each.

Forty-five of the trees will be placed in Twelfth street square for the usual municipal Christmas celebration. An equal number will be placed in city institutions. Others will go to orphan asylums and charitable institutions.

SENATE ADJOURNS AFTER HEARING A BRIEF ADDRESS BY PRESIDENT-ELECT

Applauded When He Enters Chamber, He Smilingly Greets Friends and Holds Conferences With Senators and Other Republican Leaders.

WILSON MESSAGE TO BE HEARD TOMORROW

Notification Committee Received at White House—Session of Three Months Will Be Occupied Largely With Appropriation Bills.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The third and final session of the sixty-sixth Congress began today with President-elect Harding in his seat in the Senate. The galleries began to fill early in the day and were crowded when the gavel of Vice President Marshall and Speaker Gillett fell promptly at noon.

The Joint Committee of the House and Senate, to notify President Wilson formally that Congress is in session, was received by the President at the White House at 1 p. m. today.

Senator Harding received a round of applause as he entered the Senate chamber just before noon. Spectators rose all over the galleries to obtain a better view of the President-elect, who entered from the Republican cloakroom with Senator Lodge, Republican leader.

Mr. Harding was surrounded immediately by a crowd of Senators who shook hands and clasped him upon the back. The President-elect welcomed his admirers with a broad smile.

Senate Adjourns. After Senator Harding had spoken briefly, the Senate adjourned without transacting any business to await a communication from President Wilson.

The Senate was in session only 25 minutes, while the House remained in session 50 minutes. Both dispensed with routine business, the House adjourning out of respect to members who have died since the last session.

The House presented a turbulent scene throughout its session. Speaker Gillett maintained order with difficulty even after the roll call. While the members were supposed to be answering to their names, none remained seated. They milled around the chamber as if the adjournment had been a few years instead of a few months.

A total of 351 members answered the roll call, at the conclusion of which eight new members were sworn in to fill seats made vacant by deaths or resignations.

Sixty-seven Senators answered the roll call, and Senators Glass of Virginia and Heflin of Alabama, elected to fill vacancies, were escorted to the Vice President's rostrum and sworn in.

Message to Be Heard Tomorrow. It was uncertain whether President Wilson would deliver his message in person or send it to Congress tomorrow. Opinion generally was that the latter course would be followed. There was practically no information regarding the contents of the message, but the belief was prevalent that it would deal with America's international relations and pressing reconstruction problems, including taxation.

Arrangements have been made at the Capitol to receive the President should he decide to resume the custom interrupted by his illness. Tickets of admission to the House galleries have been printed and are ready for distribution to members of the Senate and House immediately upon an announcement from the White House that the President will visit the Capitol.

Should occasion arise to distribute the tickets congressional leaders realize there would be a great demand.

HARDING TO CALL SPECIAL SESSION 'AS SOON AS POSSIBLE'

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—President-elect Harding said today he had "asked Senators during his conference today to proceed with all appropriation bills as rapidly as possible, in order to get that necessary legislation out of the way and the decks cleared for a special session of Congress."

Senator Harding did not fix the date for the session, but said it would be "as soon as possible" after March 4.

Senator Harding said that he would resign from the Senate between Jan. 10 and 15 and that Frank B. Willis of Ohio, elected as his successor, would be appointed to fill out his unexpired term.

By the Associated Press.
SANTA ROSA, CAL., Dec. 6.—Three men and one woman held in jail here for implication in the shooting yesterday in which a Sheriff and two detectives were killed for hours last night listened to shouts of a throng outside which demanded vengeance for the killing of the officers. Two attempts were made to storm the jail. A group of men, carrying a telegraph pole which they planned to use as a battering ram, attempted to rush the front door of the jail. The police seized John Campbell, who, they said, was the leader, and dispersed the mob. Later another group carrying a heavy iron beam several blocks from a building under construction, were attacked by a group of officers, who defeated the attempt largely, they said, by a liberal use of their fists.

The four under arrest were taken into custody in connection with recent attacks on young women in San Francisco.

Three Slain in Fight.

When the arrest was attempted yesterday by Sheriff Petray and two San Francisco detectives, George Boyd, one of the persons sought, offered resistance. He shot the three men before being overpowered. Detective Sergeant Jackson shot Boyd after being wounded himself.

The tragedy was a development of the police search for members of a group of men who were charged with the attacks on young women in San Francisco. The police said that more than a dozen, and probably a score, of young women to indignities, insults and brutalities at a house in one of the more densely settled districts of the city.

Boyd was identified today by Pearl Hanley as one of the men who attacked her in San Francisco, Nov. 10. Boyd told District Attorney George Boyle that he fired the shots which caused the three deaths.

Campbell, a confectioner of Monte Rio, was arrested yesterday with intent to riot. He was haranguing a crowd in front of the jail and assisting in placing the pole against the jail door, police said. The officers inside the jail opened the door, reached out and took Campbell into custody.

Detective Sergeant Miles M. Jackson of San Francisco and Sheriff James A. Petray of Sonoma County, were killed and Detective Lester H. Dorman of San Francisco was shot when questioning three men in a house in the Italian quarter. Dorman died later.

Three Men and Woman Held.

The persons in custody are: Boyd, Dan F. Fitzgerald of Santa Rosa, Terrence Pitts of Santa Rosa, Charles Valenti, alleged owner of the house in San Francisco in which the attacks were made on girls, and Dorothy Quinlan of San Francisco. The detectives and Policewoman Katherine O'Connor of San Francisco had come to Santa Rosa early yesterday with three young San Francisco girls who had been attacked recently in that city. The police hoped through the girls to locate Charles Valenti of San Francisco as one of the men sought in connection with the attacks. The policewoman and the three girls were outside the house when the shooting occurred.

Girls in San Francisco Have Told of Attacks in Same House.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 6.—The attacks on young women as a development of which the shooting at Santa Rosa occurred, first came to the attention of the local police on the morning of Nov. 24, when a disheveled young woman, whose face bore the marks of blows, reported that she and a companion had been subjected to insults and brutalities at a house to which they had been taken. The police raided the place, finding the second young woman in a serious condition, and arresting five men.

Two other girls informed the police Saturday that they had been induced to visit the same house and had been subjected to treatment much the same as that described by the first two. The five men taken are Edward "Knockout" Kruvosky, Ed "Spud" Murphy, both pugilists; James Carey, Allen McDonald and Thomas Brady. They were held in bonds, the highest ever fixed in a local court.

The girls said eight men had been concerned in the attacks and it was in a search for one of the three not found in the house that the officers went to Santa Rosa.

So strong was public sentiment here against the prisoners that they informed the court, at their arraignment last week, that they had been unable to obtain counsel to defend them.

Body of Col. Jay L. Torrey to Arrive Here Tomorrow

Former St. Louisan, Nationally Known as Rough Rider, Rancher and Politician, to Be Buried in Pittsfield, Ill.

The body of Col. Jay L. Torrey, rough rider, politician and founder of Fruitville, Mo., who died Saturday night on his ranch at Fruitville, near West Plains, aged 67, will reach St. Louis about 8 o'clock tomorrow morning over the Frisco, and will be taken to Pittsfield, Ill., his birthplace, for burial. It will be accompanied by the widow, formerly Mrs. Frances Rielet of West Plains, to whom he was married Oct. 27, and from St. Louis by the Rev. C. N. Clark, pastor of the Lafayette Park M. E. Church, who performed the marriage ceremony.

Although his early life was spent in St. Louis, and he practiced law here for years, and his later years were identified with the development of the fruit-bearing Ozarks, it was as a citizen of the wider spaces "beyond the Missouri" that he attained national prominence and was seriously considered as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Vice President at the Philadelphia convention which renominated President McKinley.

Torrey was born in humble circumstances and was a self-made man. In his youth, in St. Louis, he carried newspapers. He worked his way through Washington University and was graduated in law in 1876. His practice was to a considerable extent in commercial law. He became interested with the need of a new bankruptcy law. He prepared such a law and pressed it upon the attention of Congress for several years and finally obtained its passage.

In the meantime he had moved to Wyoming and had become a rancher in the Big Horn Basin. He became an active member of the Republican party in Wyoming and was sent as a delegate to the Philadelphia convention. He was one of the probabilities for the vice presidential nomination, but the Roosevelt wave bowled them all over.

Months before the Spanish-American War Torrey's thoughts would come and he was developing his plans. It was evident that operations in Cuba would require cavalry. Men would be needed who could swing into the saddle, take care of themselves and their horses, capable of endurance and expert marksmen. These men were to be found in Wyoming and the adjoining sections and relations between the Council and Assembly, presented by A. J. Bal-four of Great Britain, provoked a long debate in which Lord Cecil, speaking for the Union of South Africa, came into conflict for the first time in a full session of the Assembly with the British delegation. Lord Robert objected to the limitation upon the competence of the Assembly, recommended by the committee. He said this would prevent the Assembly from considering such important questions as disarmament and mandates. The South African delegation was unable to accept the report without modifications, he declared.

Report Is Amended.

Lord Robert offered an amendment declaring that either the council or the assembly would have the right to examine any question with the assembly, and the report as amended then was approved by the assembly.

Postponement of consideration of amendments to the covenant of the League of Nations until the "next meeting of the assembly means that the assembly at its present session of sittings in Geneva does not intend again to take up these amendments for consideration, leaving them to be brought up at the next gathering of the body in Geneva. This will be some time in 1921. In debate on the assembly floor last week A. J. Bal-four mentioned Sept. 1 next as the date for the meeting, but the impression has been that this was tentative.

Canadian Attitude Explained.

"Canada's action has no relation whatever to the attitude of any other nation toward article 10 of the league covenant," said Sir George E. Foster, head of the Canadian delegation, yesterday, regarding C. J. Doherty's amendment to the covenant that article 10 be eliminated. "Canada's attitude is exactly the same as that of its delegates at the peace conference, where Sir Robert Borden submitted to the league commission a memorandum to the effect that this article ought to be stricken out."

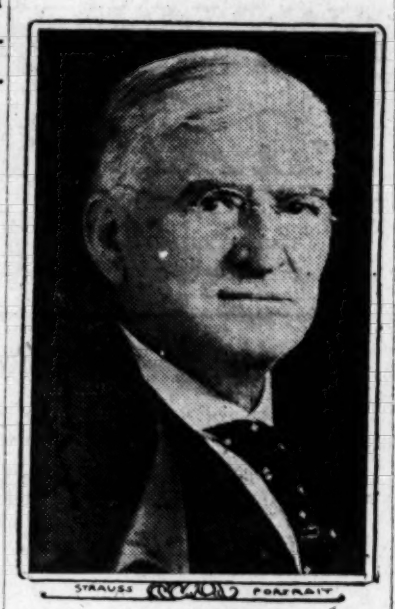

"The Parliament at Ottawa, in approving the principles underlying the covenant in April, 1919, made the same reservation."

"It also proposed other amendments, one of which reserved the right of each nation to regulate and control the character of its population by the restriction of immigration. Another stipulated that nothing in the covenant could interfere in any way with Canada's complete economic independence."

"Since other amendments are to be considered, Canada asks that this amendment receive consideration at the same time."

Sir George said, however, that the Canadian delegation was quite willing that the amendment should go Organized Regiment of Cavalry.

When war was declared Torrey laid his plans before the officials at Washington and they were approved and he was commissioned to organize a regiment of rough riders. In two weeks he had recruited a thousand men. They were not needed in Cuba and spent their period of training and drilling in Florida, but railroad accidents and fever killed 30 of them.

After the war he returned to Missouri and acquired 10,000 acres of fruit lands in Howell County and established the Fruitville ranch and community, in which a patriotic ritual was observed, including a flag-raising ceremony on designated mornings.

He was an unsuccessful candidate for United States Senator in 1913.

Second Cousin of Taft.

Torrey was a second cousin of former President Taft. He was at one time president of the Mercantile Club and of the Missouri House of Representatives. He was a member of the Board of Trustees of the Fruit Experimental Station and a member of the Board of Visitors at the University of Missouri.

At his Fruitville farm he entertained extensively and on a large scale. In 1913 the annual reunion of Spanish-American War Veterans was held there. He was tireless in his work for the development of the Ozarks.

London Paper Says Argentina Is "Not Playing the Game."

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Dec. 6.—Withdrawal of the Argentine delegation from the assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva does not seem to be endorsed by the British press, so far as opinion is reflected in editorial comments.

The Chronicle absolves the assembly from blame, adding: "For a member of the league to join unconditionally and then retire the moment its fellow members delay to transform the league at its bidding, is not playing the game."

"Only evil counsel have resulted from making amendments when the bulk of the clauses of the covenant have never been in operation," declares the Times. "Amendments, when the time comes for them, should be the fruits of experience and ripe consideration of practical needs."

VOLSTEAD MOVES FOR REPEAL OF ALL WAR-TIME LAWS

Bill Exempts Trading With Enemy, District of Columbia Rent and Espionage Acts.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—One of the first steps by the Republican majority in the House to place the country on a peace-time basis was taken today by Representative Volstead of Minnesota, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, who introduced a bill repealing all war-time statutes, except the trading with the enemy, food control, District of Columbia rent, Liberty Bond and espionage acts.

Volstead announced that the Judiciary Committee would begin hearings immediately. Amendment of the bill in committee to exempt the War Finance Corporation is expected by House leaders.

A subcommittee to determine whether the resolution directing revival of the War Finance Corporation shall be a joint or concurrent one was appointed today by the joint congressional committee holding hearings on the agricultural situation. A concurrent resolution would not require approval by President Wilson.

Taken From Hospital to Police Station.

A Coroner's verdict of criminal carelessness was returned today in the case of Rudolph Jansen, 43 years old, of 921 Chouteau avenue, who died from a fractured skull a few minutes after he was thrown from an automobile in a collision with a street lamp in front of 4536 South Broadway at 6:30 o'clock last night.

James G. Sullivan, 37, of 1500 St. Ange avenue, an embalmer, who was driving the automobile, was held responsible. He was cut on the left ear and left hand, and, after treatment at Alexian Brothers' Hospital, where it was said that he showed signs of having been drinking, he was taken to the Carondelet Police Station.

A third occupant of the automobile, whose identity has not been established, jumped from the car just before the collision and ran away. Sullivan at the time of the accident was driving north on the east side of Broadway and appeared to have lost control of the steering apparatus.

Jansen's death was the 108th motor vehicle fatality here since Jan. 1, as compared with 90 in the corresponding period of last year.

Investigation Begun.

The Coroner today began an investigation of the case of William Mueller, 60, 3846 Delmar boulevard, who died last Friday at the Missouri State Sanatorium from a fractured skull suffered Aug. 4, at 12:15 p. m., when he was thrown from an automobile driven by Joseph Stottelmeier of 1908 North Fourteenth street.

Stottelmeier was driving west on Delmar boulevard and when in front of 3860 collided with an automobile driven by Nicholas Loftis of 4482 Forest Park boulevard. Stottelmeier's car then bounded and hit a tree, causing Mueller to be jolted from the car.

A Coroner's verdict of "accident" was returned today in the case of Miss Julia Phelan, 34, of 4561 West Florissant avenue, a stenographer, who was killed at 8:30 p. m. last Saturday, by an automobile driven by Louis L. Slattery, 32, of 1454 A Clinton street, an electrical contractor, at Adelaide and Florissant avenues. Slattery testified that he was driving east on Florissant avenue and that Miss Phelan stepped from behind a Bellefontaine car which had stopped at Adelaide avenue. He said that he had sounded his horn and was not aware of Miss Phelan's presence until he felt the jar as his automobile struck her. He said that he was driving slowly.

mand for them as this would be the first public appearance of the President since he was taken ill more than a year ago.

Appropriations Chief Task.

The final session of the present Congress opens with only three months of allotted official life, ended just before the inauguration of President Harding March 4, and with an extra session on Saturday in prospect. Appropriation bills will constitute the principal task at this session.

Secretary Houston of the Treasury transmitted to Congress today the annual budget of estimates for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, totaling more than $4,000,000,000. These estimates will form the basis for the appropriation bills.

Actual work of both branches is to begin tomorrow. The usual opening avalanche of bills is expected then in the House and Saturday in the Senate. Consideration of minor miscellaneous measures in the unfinished business calendar probably will be started Tuesday in the House and Wednesday the Senate will begin debate on the Kenyon-Kendrick bill for Federal regulation of the meat industry.

A tentative program of legislation, in addition to the appropriation bills, is expected to be determined this week by Republican leaders in conferences among themselves and with President-elect Harding.

Republican leaders predict that Congress will be forced to work steadily to complete the appropriation bills by March 4. In addition to these bills, other legislation likely to be taken up includes measures to repeal war legislation, for relief of farmers and probably a few other emergency bills.

Senator Harding, who is a guest at the suburban home of Edward B. McLean, breakfasted late and remained away from the capitol until shortly before the Senate convened. Meantime, a swarm of callers waited at his quarters in the Senate of the building and another small crowd congregated about the Philippine Committee room in the Capitol in the hope that he would come there.

George B. Christian Jr., the President-elect's secretary, called at McLean home, and, after a short talk with his chief, went to the Senate office building and began work on

GOVERNMENT WINS ANTI TRUST SUIT IN LEHIGH CASE

Against Railroad Company Sustained in Supreme Court Decision.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The Government today won its anti-trust suit against the Lehigh Valley Railroad Co. and affiliated corporations.

The Supreme Court in a decision read by Associate Justice Clarke, sustained charges of monopoly and violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The Court held that charges of violation of the commodities clause in the formation of the Lehigh Coal Sales Co. had been proven.

Redistribution of stock of the Lehigh Valley Co., asked for by the Government, was ordered by the court upon the Government's contention that common stock ownership, officers and directors constituted restraint of trade prohibited by the Sherman act.

Justices McReynolds and Brandeis took no part in the consideration of the case. Justice McReynolds was Attorney-General while the case was pending.

The record shows clearly, the Court held, that since 1868 the railroad has entered into purchases of coal lands with the express purpose of preventing competition in the transportation of coal. The railroad always owns all stock of the coal company, the opinion continued, and paid for the coal lands purchased for the company.

Combined holdings of coal lands was placed at 90,000 acres, "of which more than 60,000 were along the railroad's line."

As a result, it was stated in the opinion, 95 per cent of all coal carried by the Lehigh in 1905 was owned by the railroad.

In 1912, the Court said, the Lehigh Valley Sales Co. was organized to sell coal to the railroad. The railroad, "with the purpose of evading the commodities clause," and this contract was embodied in the same terms as the Lackawanna contract which the Supreme Court has already held to have been contrary to anti-trust laws.

The opinion read by Justice Clarke was that of the seven members of the court that took part in the decision. The Court dismissed the case in so far as it applied to the New York and Middle Coal Field Railroad; the G. B. H. Co., the Girard Trust Co., Philadelphia, and the individual officers and directors of the various companies, including the late George F. Baer, Daniel G. Reid, Eben R. Thomas, Lyman D. Smith, E. T. Stotesbury, George F. Baker and others prominent in the financial and railroad world.

6 NEGROES SENTENCED TO DEATH IN ARKANSAS GET NEW TRIALS

Court Holds Evidence of Excluding Negroes in Selecting Jury Should Have Been Admitted.

By the Associated Press.
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 6.—On the grounds that the Phillips Circuit Court had erred in refusing to permit introduction of evidence to support a charge that prejudice in the exclusion of negroes had been shown in selection of the present jury, the Arkansas Supreme Court today reversed and remanded for new trials the cases of six of the Elaine negro rioters who were under death sentences.

accumulated correspondence, which is expected to occupy much of Mr. Harding's time during his two-day visit here.

With telephones ringing continually and the procession of callers growing steadily during the forenoon the Senator's office became one of the busiest spots in Washington as the new session convened.

The President-elect reached the capitol shortly after 11 o'clock and before calling at his own office went to that of Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the Republican leader, where he remained in conference for several minutes.

Aside from his senatorial colleagues the first callers to be seen by the President-elect were former Senators Weeks of Massachusetts, and Sutherland of Utah, both of whom have been his close advisers since his nomination, and who have been prominently mentioned in gossip about Cabinet positions. They called at Senator Lodge's office while Mr. Harding was there and joined in the consultation between the President-elect and the Senate leader.

FAVORABLE REPORT ORDERED ON SUSPENDING IMMIGRATION

Representative Johnson's Bill Would Hold Up Influx of Aliens for Two Years.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Favorable report on the Johnson bill prohibiting immigration into the United States for a period of two years, was ordered today by the House Immigration Committee. Chairman Johnson of the committee said the measure would be given preference in the House.

The measure would become effective 60 days after enactment. The committee's report describes conditions existing which it says makes it necessary to restrict immigration as proposed.

attention and careful consideration. Robbery is recognized as one of the most serious crimes, as is shown by the severity of the punishment fixed for those found guilty thereof, and it is therefore exceedingly important that all persons guilty of this offense should be promptly punished. The very nature of the crime is such that the witnesses are necessarily limited in number and there is no class of cases where the witnesses are so apt to disappear, sometimes due to the fact that the victims are not residents of the city. If you will, therefore, promptly give such cases your consideration, before taking up matters of less importance, the sworn statements of the witnesses will be available and there will be less likelihood of the necessary witnesses disappearing before trial.

Crimes by Men Out on Bond.

"In connection with the prompt punishment of persons guilty of such crimes, and especially in view of the great increase in crime in this city during the past few months, the Court wishes to impress upon you the importance of not only seeing that the guilty receive just punishment, but that every possible step be taken to prevent further crimes from being committed. As a means to this end the Court wishes to call your attention to the fact that, in its opinion, some portion of the crimes committed lately have been by persons accused or convicted of some previous offense and who have been released on bond.

"The laws of this State provide that a person accused of a crime, or who has been convicted of some

EDUCATED HORSE LOCKS HIS MASTER IN AN OATS BIN

Former Auditor of Madison County Prisoner Several Hours at County Home.

County Auditor Frank Troecker of Edwardsville, who returned to private life today, being the latest Democrat in the Courthouse at Edwardsville, was down at his country place at Mitchell yesterday and was made a prisoner in an oats bin by a pet horse.

Troecker went out to the barn to feed the stock and went to the oats room with a measure. He was followed by "Spot," the pet horse. The animal has been taught to open and close doors, and while Troecker was in the bin the horse shut the door and latched it, manipulating the latch with teeth and lips.

There is no inside latch. Troecker's shouts for help were not heard, and when he tried to wriggle through the only opening into another part of the barn he stuck fast and could not free himself for a quarter hour. It was late in the evening when his daughter, passing through the barn yard, heard his cries and released him.

felony and whose case is on appeal and not finally disposed of, shall be entitled to his liberty upon the filing of a proper and legal bond, signed by qualified sureties, and approved by the Court. The sureties on these bonds are required by the Court to file an affidavit with the Clerk of the court as to their qualifications to act as bondsmen, and where a true and legal qualification is filed, and accepted by the Court, the person is entitled to his liberty under the proper bond.

Qualifications of Sureties.

"The Court's attention has been called, however, to the fact that in some instances perjured and dishonest statements have been made by certain parties as to their assets and, in this way, the Judges often have been led to believe that a man was qualified as surety when as a matter of fact he was not. While the Court has no definite knowledge of any particular instance in which this is a matter of the utmost importance and therefore directs your attention to the sworn qualifications of bondsmen, which are on file in the office of the Clerk of this Court, as well as in the office of the Clerk of the Court of Criminal Correction and the Clerk of the City Courts, and instructs you gentlemen to investigate this matter, and should you find that any person has committed perjury, in the filing of these qualifications, you should do your duty without fear of the consequences."

Judge Landwehr directed, as is usually done, that charges against persons held in jail should be considered first; next, the cases of persons released on bond. He cautioned the grand jurors to be especially guarded in entertaining accusations made by private prosecutors, and said all anonymous communications should be disregarded. He enumerated a number of statutes to which the Court is required by the provisions of statutes to call to the special attention of the grand jury. One of these was a section of the Revised Statutes of 1909 relating to "the regulation of dramsops, licenses, local option, etc." The dramsops laws have been superseded by the State

YOUTH SHOT WHEN HUNTING

Elmer Kierach Dangerously Wounded
by Companion Near St. Charles.
Elmer Kierach, 15 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kierach of 318 Skinker road, was accidentally shot in the right thigh by John Hill of Wellston late yesterday while they were hunting rabbits on the farm of Henry Meyer, 10 miles north of St. Charles, the full load from a shotgun taking effect. The boy was chasing a rabbit from some brush when the accident occurred.

Hill and a companion carried young Kierach nearly a mile to the Meyer home, where he was put in an automobile and taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, St. Charles, where today he was said to be in a serious condition.

New Grand Jurors.

The two alternates named are: Theodore Bothman, 6392 Clemens avenue, secretary Broadway Savings Trust Co. August W. Thias, 4406 Holly avenue, assistant cashier National Bank of Commerce.

Stocke and Hull were members of the grand jury which sat in July, 1918, and which returned the first indictments in the United Railway referendum petition theft case. As only about 600 names are placed in the grand jury wheel, it is not uncommon for men to serve frequently on the grand jury.

SINN FEIN READY TO MAKE PEACE AT ONCE, LEADER SAYS

The Rev. O'Flanagan, Acting President, Wires Lloyd George What Steps He Proposes.

GENERAL SENTIMENT IN FAVOR OF TRUCE

"Today Is Ireland's Valley Forge, Tomorrow Will Be Ireland's Yorktown," Says Griffith in Message.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 6.—Sensational Sinn Fein documents, alleged to deal with purchase of arms and munitions on a great scale, are reported to have been discovered during a raid at Seaforth. During the raid two young and stylishly attired Irish girls were arrested.

DUBLIN, Dec. 6.—The Rev. Michael O'Flanagan, acting president of the Sinn Fein, has sent the following telegram to Premier Lloyd George:

"You state that you are willing to make peace at once, without waiting for Christmas. Ireland also is willing. What first step do you propose?"

Auxiliary police raided the Dublin city hall today and arrested six members of the corporation. There is a general sentiment, strongly backed by ecclesiastical influence, in favor of a truce, but there is no expectation that any Sinn Fein of an authoritative position will be able to meet the Government on essential conditions.

View of Sinn Fein Paper.

The Sinn Fein organ says that the Government's repressive measures are merely undertaken to force a compromise, which must be resisted. Until the eve of Arthur Henderson's visit to Ireland, Griffith, MacNeill and other reputed moderates were not molested; they are then arrested and still are held, the Government allegation against them being either culpable ignorance in the employment of Dail Eireann funds or knowledge that these funds were being used by the republican army to promote violence. This, it is pointed out, is considered inconsistent with the Government's desire for a truce.

Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein, who is in prison, saw Henderson and issued this message to the Irish press: "Today is Ireland's Valley Forge; tomorrow will be Ireland's Yorktown."

A proclamation is said to have been posted throughout the Dublin district by order of the auxiliary constabulary, which, asserting that an attack had been made by apparently peaceful persons, who drew revolvers from their pockets, orders that all male inhabitants of Macroom or males passing through the district shall not appear in public with their hands in their pockets, otherwise they will be liable to be shot at sight.

Peace Efforts in Dublin. Determined efforts to bring about an early peace in Ireland are being made here. Conversations have been in progress more than a week, and hope was expressed last night by some of those engaged in the negotiations that within another week a tangible basis of settlement might be reached.

The chief intermediary at work is the Rev. Patrick Joseph Clune, Bishop of Perth, Australia, who, it is understood, has been asked by Premier Lloyd George to sound out Sinn Fein sentiment, and prepare, if possible, the ground on which a foundation for the peace edifice can be reared.

Mr. Clune is a native of County Clare, and went to Australia 24 years ago. He arrived in Ireland last August, and made a number of trips back and forth to England.

He stated to the Associated Press yesterday that negotiations still were progressing, but that it was too soon to make any positive prediction relative to their success. He declared, however, he wished great things that good would be forthcoming from efforts made in the last week, and expressed confidence a truce could be arranged before Christmas. He is exercising full powers of mediation and arbitration to achieve that end.

Final Interview Today.

Mr. Clune planned to have a final interview today with Sir Hankey Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, who made a special week-end trip to Ireland in connection with the peace movement. The Australian prelate expects to go to London tonight or tomorrow to report on the result of his work to Premier Lloyd George. Every facility to carry out his mission had been given him by the Government, he said, and he was so free from espionage that he has talked not only with Arthur Griffith and other Sinn Fein and Nationalist leaders, but with men in the active element of the Sinn Fein movement, on whom the Government is trying its utmost to lay its hands. So far as can be ascertained, members of the British Labor Commission visiting Ireland are not directly concerned in the peace movement which Mr. Clune is engineering. Arthur Henderson had a long talk with Cardinal Logue yesterday and is returning to England, leaving other

CORRECTION OF STATEMENT ABOUT CONSTABLE FLOYD BUSH

In Sunday's Post-Dispatch It Was Inadvertently Stated That He Is a Negro, Which Was Erroneous.

The Post-Dispatch, in a story in its Sunday edition, inadvertently stated that Constable Floyd E. Bush of the Fourth Division of the Peace District, Division No. 1, is a negro. This is erroneous, as Bush, as is well known to all of his friends, is white.

Bush, who is a Constable in the Justice of the Peace Court of Harry E. McChesney, 215 Pontiac Building, has been active in Republican affairs of the Seventeenth Ward.

$18,000 Robbery at Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 6.—An alleged theft of jewels estimated in value at $18,000, from the home of H. C. Flower, chairman of the board of directors of the Fidelity National Bank of this city, on the night of Nov. 22, became known yesterday, after efforts of the police and the Flower family to keep it secret. The jewelry, mostly diamonds, is believed to have been stolen by porch climbers, who entered the Flower residence while the family was at dinner.

BIDS FOR NEW APPARATUS FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT AUTHORIZED

The Supervisory Committee of the Bond Issue today authorized Supply Commissioner Thomas to advertise for bids for addition Fire Department apparatus, to be paid for out of the $360,000 bond issue allotment for that purpose.

The articles to be purchased and the estimated costs will be three automobiles for assistant chiefs, $3600; three 85-foot ladder trucks, $42,000; three 45-foot ladder trucks, $28,500; and 14 gasoline motor pump and hose wagons, $168,000.

The request of Chief Panzer for a new automobile for his own use at a cost of $5000 was not granted. It was suggested that his present machine could be revamped at a cost of $1200. The request for five cars for assistant chiefs was out to three cars. $600 he set aside to pay the expenses of Chris. Koeln, master mechanic of the Fire Department, to visit the factories of successful bidders and see that the specifications are complied with.

The purchase of a lot for a new engine house at Michigan avenue and Kraus street at a cost of $2025 was approved by the committee.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS' ELECTION EXPENSE $1007.61

Expenditures of $1007.61 are shown in the sworn statement which was to be filed during the day with the Recorder of Deeds by the St. Louis League of Women Voters covering its activities against the "Three K's," judicial candidates, two out of three of whom were defeated.

Officers of the league failed to file their statement within the 30-day period after the election, Nov. 2, as required by law, through not realizing that their organization came within the scope of the statute. The statement, which was completed, signed and sworn to by Mrs. Elsie K. Raub, treasurer, was to be filed by Mrs. E. T. Senseney, independent president of the league. It was itemized as follows:

Advertising, $270.25; letters, banners, dodgers, slides, etc., $481.56; stenographers and extra office help, $77.50; miscellaneous, postage, etc., $78.30.

No contributions were obtained by the league for the specific purpose of their campaign, that money being taken from its general funds.

Bread Price Cut Again in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 6.—The second cut in the price of bread in two weeks was announced today. Pound loaves retailed at 12 cents, while 16 cents was asked for pound and a half loaves, a reduction of one cent.

down. It was impossible to get men to repair equipment, and at the close of the war, the habit of doing for the last few years, and as a result chair cars are becoming more popular than they have been for the last three years," C. W. Westbury of Richmond, Va., president of the association and division passenger agent for the Southern Railway System, said.

No Fare Reduction Soon.

"A reduction in railroad fares is not probable in the near future," he continued. "The railroads have too many obligations to meet, and a railroad labor is extremely high."

"The railroad companies are doing all that is possible to reach the pre-war standard in service. All lines, during the war, became greatly run down. It was impossible to get men to repair equipment, and at the close of the war, the habit of doing for the last few years, and as a result chair cars are becoming more popular than they have been for the last three years," C. W. Westbury of Richmond, Va., president of the association and division passenger agent for the Southern Railway System, said.

He declared that the greatest enemy of the railroads had been the unrest, which had become general, and that one of the purposes of the meeting today was to force upon the minds of the passenger agents that co-operation on the part of everyone was needed to stabilize business.

Alexander Hilton, vice president of the Frisco, was the principal speaker at this morning's session. The convention closes this afternoon with the election of officers. A tour over several of the main lines, however, has been a convention feature, will not be made this year.

FOUR RETAIL GROCERS FINED FOR KEEPING OPEN ON SUNDAY

Four retail grocers were fined $30 each in police court today for keeping their stores open on Sunday in violation of a city ordinance. The fines were stayed on payment of costs. Those fined were: Mrs. Josephine Rieser, 5551 Labadie avenue; Mrs. Mary Gunn, 1601 North Union avenue; Tony Reggio, 1013 North Ninth street; and John Hartmann, 5511 St. Louis avenue. Each pleaded ignorance of the ordinance. The arrests were made on the complaint of Harry A. Fisher, 4118 Clarence avenue, secretary of the Retail Grocery Clerks' Association, who testified that his only interest in the cases was to see that the law was enforced.

TANK TREAD INVENTOR DIES

STOCKTON, Cal., Dec. 6.—Benjamin Holt, inventor of the caterpillar tread applied to tractors, died at a hospital here yesterday, after a brief illness. The tread he invented was applied to the tanks developed as a major weapon in the great war. He was born in New Hampshire in 1849. Four sons and a daughter survive him.

NO TRAVEL SLUMPS, PASSENGER AGENTS SAY

100 T. P. A.'s From All Parts of U. S. Here for 46th Convention.

Passenger travel in general is as heavy as it was a year ago, although a few lines have shown a slump in the last two months, and tourists are going to winter resorts this year in as great numbers as last winter, according to passenger agents representing railroads in all parts of the United States and Canada, attending the forty-sixth convention of the American Association of Traveling Passenger Agents, which opened at the Jefferson Hotel this morning.

Although there has been a decided decrease in freight shipments, owing to a general slump in manufacturing and wholesale business, it is not expected that passenger travel will be greatly affected on the principal lines.

More than 100 passenger agents were assembled for the opening session. The convention is a rehabilitation meeting, as the association has not functioned since 1916.

Santa Fe Traffic Heavy.

E. F. Burnett, district passenger agent for the Santa Fe Railroad, with headquarters in New York, declared that in the East passenger travel was exceptionally heavy. "Our line is running two limited trains to California daily, and all are crowded," he said. "People are traveling in drawing rooms the same as usual, and we have practically all the compartments in our Pullman cars taken for the next two months."

Passenger agents representing several of the smaller lines complain of a slump in travel, and roads through Michigan have experienced a decrease in business, owing to shutting down in the automobile industry.

"There is a marked tendency on the part of persons of small means to count their dollars more than they have been in the habit of doing for the last few years, and as a result chair cars are becoming more popular than they have been for the last three years," C. W. Westbury of Richmond, Va., president of the association and division passenger agent for the Southern Railway System, said.

No Fare Reduction Soon.

"A reduction in railroad fares is not probable in the near future," he continued. "The railroads have too many obligations to meet, and a railroad labor is extremely high."

"The railroad companies are doing all that is possible to reach the pre-war standard in service. All lines, during the war, became greatly run down. It was impossible to get men to repair equipment, and at the close of the war, the habit of doing for the last few years, and as a result chair cars are becoming more popular than they have been for the last three years," C. W. Westbury of Richmond, Va., president of the association and division passenger agent for the Southern Railway System, said.

WOMAN FINED $50 FOR SCATTERING OFFENSIVE CHEMICAL

William Bequette, 27 years old, 4898 A. Delmar boulevard, and Miss Eleanor De Vault, 24, 5243 Delmar boulevard, who were arrested Nov. 23 following the scattering of a chemical of offensive odor in the dining room at Hotel Statler, were each fined $50 and costs in police court today. Both refused to take the stand in their defense. A charge of resisting arrest, which is also against Bequette, was continued until Dec. 13.

It was brought out in court that the chemical used to produce the odor was valerianic acid. Detective Sergeant William Lawler, who arrested Bequette, testified that when Bequette was searched, following his arrest, one of his pockets was damp and gave forth an odor as though one of the bombs had burst in it. Bequette has denied that he had anything to do with scattering the chemical in the hotel dining room. Miss De Vault also has contended that Bequette was not implicated.

Lawler also testified that Bequette, who says he is a chauffeur and not a member of the union, was arrested about three weeks ago in connection with the slugging of a waiter, and that at that time a union card was found in his pocket. Following her arrest Miss De Vault told Lawler she was a nurse, and had been hired to scatter the chemical in the hotel dining room. Lawler said in court that it had been shown she had come here from Chicago a few weeks ago. The Statler, in common with other hotels and restaurants, has been closed on an open-shop basis since Oct. 1.

3808 VICTIMS OF MOTOR CAR ACCIDENTS IN U. S. IN 1919

Death Rate 14.1 to 100,000 Population—St. Louis Total 105, an Increase of 12 Over Preceding Year.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—A total of 3808 persons were killed in auto accidents, or died as a result of injuries therefrom, during the last year, the Census Bureau announces in a statement offering suggestions for traffic improvement.

An automobile accident death rate of 14.1 out of every 100,000 population was reported for 1919, an increase over every year since 1915, when the rate was 8.0, and an increase of 245 in the total number of deaths over 1918.

"Each year it becomes more and more dangerous for a person to walk the streets," the Census Bureau's statement said. "The reason usually given, and probably the correct one, is that the number of automobiles in use is constantly increasing. How, then, shall this ever-increasing danger be lessened? The obvious remedy is to improve constantly the traffic regulations to keep pace with the ever-increasing number of automobiles."

Kansas City Rate Lower.

"This call for better and better traffic regulations is not a fanciful one. Everyone is familiar with the necessity for slow and orderly progress when a crowd emerges from a circus tent, and similarly automobile traffic must be slowed down and controlled until it becomes safe. The 1919 rates for Kansas City, Mo.: San Antonio, Tex., and Cleveland, all much lower than the 1918, furnish a ray of hope that we are finally waking up."

Suggestions made by the Bureau for Traffic Improvement follow:

DEPARTMENT STORE JANITOR, WANTED HERE, HELD IN CHICAGO

Michael Weisbacher Left Here Last Month After $13,000 in Stolen Goods Were Found in His Home.

A telegram was received by Chief of Detectives Hannegan today from the Chicago Chief of Police announcing the arrest there of Michael Weisbacher, 35 years old, of 1817 South Eighth street, former head janitor of the St. B. & Fuller Dry Goods Co., charged with stealing thousands of dollars' worth of goods from that firm. The telegram stated that he would come back without requisition. An officer will be sent for him.

Weisbacher formerly was doorman and attracted attention with his Kaiser mustache. He was arrested as an alien during the war and held 60 days. Following his release, he was transferred by the firm to head janitor.

When suspicion fell upon him his home was searched early in November and goods valued at $13,000, identified as having been stolen from the firm, were recovered. He fled and search for him has been made since.

Three Hurt When Train Hits Auto.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Dec. 6.—Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Henderson and Miss Leone Ragland, all of Springfield, were seriously injured last night when their automobile was hit by a train at a grade crossing here. They will recover.

TAILORS STRIKE AT NEW CO-OPERATIVE SHOP

Members of Union Local 280 Walk Out When Told They Are Hired as Individuals

Journeymen Tailors' Union, Local 280, called a meeting this afternoon to decide what effect the walkout of 28 union tailors employed at the so-called co-operative shop of the Master Tailors' Association today would have on the entire membership of the local, which numbers approximately 1000 workmen.

According to its announcement last week, following refusal of local 280 to accept a reduction in its wage scale, the Master Tailors' Association, embracing in its membership 125 merchant tailors of St. Louis, today established on the fifth floor at 420 Market street a so-called co-operative shop. The purpose of the new shop was to eliminate the contracting tailors, with whom the master tailors had been doing business, and who employed only members of local 280.

The tailors who walked out this morning explained that they had done so because when they reported for work they were told they would be accepted only as individuals and not as members of local 280.

Officials of Local 280 said that the action of the Master Tailors' Association was viewed by them as a declaration of open-shop policy, and that the move would be opposed by the union.

Samuel L. Fox of 615 Pine street, president of the Master Tailors' Association, said that the association was not fighting the union. He said that the members of the association had agreed to employ tailors in the co-operative shop under the rules and regulations of the National Journeymen Tailors' Union, of which Local 280 is a branch. He said that about 80 persons were working in the new shop and that they had agreed to work on an hourly wage basis, such as is prescribed by the National Union. He said that under the former contract system members of Local 280 did piece work.

WIFE DIVORCES DR. HYDE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 6.—Mrs. Frances S. Hyde was granted an absolute decree of divorce today from Dr. B. Clark Hyde by Grover Joyce, special judge. She was granted custody of the two children, B. Clark Hyde Jr., 6 years old, and Frances Hyde, 4 years old.

The decree does not permit Dr. Hyde to visit the children.

Hyde was tried three times for the murder of Col. Thomas Swope. Mrs. Hyde, a niece of Col. Swope, steadfastly supported her husband at his trials. Dr. Hyde was convicted at the first trial, but the State Supreme Court reversed the decision. There were two mistrials, and then the case was continued and finally dropped.

SHIP INJUNCTION SET ASIDE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The injunction against the Shipping Board forbidding the sale of former German passenger liners, issued by the District Supreme Court on application of William Randolph Hearst, was set aside today by the District Court of Appeals.

Subsequent action by Congress authorizing sale of the ships, the Court said, made the question involved as to the board's powers a "moot" one.

NEW CHAIN STORE PLAN TO BE LAID BEFORE GRAND JURY

Books and Advertising Matter of Co-operative Association of America to Be Presented.

$100 INVESTED
BY PROMOTERS

Declaration of Trust Provides for Percentage of Gross Receipts to Go to Promoters.

The advertising matter, prospectuses and stock certificates, together with the declaration of trust of the Co-operative Association of America, which contemplates the establishment of a chain of grocery stores, will be laid before the grand jury tomorrow for investigation.

The office of the Circuit Attorney has been at work investigating the affairs of the prospective company for several weeks, and this investigation has disclosed, it was learned today, that the association is not co-operative.

For several weeks the association has run advertisements in some newspapers and has distributed a great deal of advertising matter from house to house setting forth in glowing terms a quick and effective method to bring down the cost of living by co-operative buying and selling and to eliminate from American national life "the extortionate profiteer," who is described as still being "at large."

Promoters St. Louisans.
Four St. Louisans, R. H. Squier, Arthur Leiser, Oscar H. Damon and Clifton C. Fitz-Patrick, are promoting the concern, according to the declaration of trust, which was filed with the Recorder of Deeds Oct. 15 last. The latter three are denominated the trustees, and they put a total of $100 into it as a starter.

The circulars describe Fitzpatrick as formerly a Missouri Pacific official, for 13 years; Damon as former secretary of the National Exhibitors' League (Missouri branch), and "with motion pictures and real estate," and Leiser as former president of the Continental Auto Top Co.

The declaration of trust shows that Squier, on behalf of himself and for all parties who become members by purchasing stock, appoints the three trustees, Fitz-Patrick, Leiser and Damon, and conveys the $100 they put up, together with all other monies which may afterward come into their hands in trust for a period of 20 years after the death of the last survivor of the three.

Rights of Members.
In the meantime members have no rights in the association, its properties or its subsidiaries, except their pro rata share or whatever else the trustees may see fit to distribute and their pro rata share of whatever may be left at the termination of the trust.

The trustees, according to the declaration of trust, are to have title, control and management of all the property of the association; are not under bond, and not liable for bad judgment, and are not amenable to the members in any manner. As promoters they fix their own compensation and as trustees they fix their compensation and salaries.

Compensation of Promoters.
There is a limit specified to what they shall fix as their own, however, but this is based on gross receipts and not on profits, and the basis they fixed was 3 per cent of the gross receipts as compensation.

The stock certificates are for $25 each, and entitle the holder to 5 per cent discount at the stores. The agreement in the certificates is by reference to the terms of the declaration of trust, which may not have been seen except by the cautious and prudent investor.

The attention of the Circuit Attorney was directed to the association by E. J. Brennan, manager and counsel of the Better Business Bureau of St. Louis.

BOYS MISSING FROM MATTOON FOUND IN EAST ST. LOUIS

Three Had Been Carried Away by Freight Train While Playing in Box Car.

The disappearance of three boys, ranging in age from 9 to 11 years, from their homes in Mattoon, Ill., Saturday evening was solved yesterday when Chief of Police Mulconery of East St. Louis notified their parents they had been found, they having ridden the 125 miles from Mattoon to East St. Louis on a Big Four freight train. The boys are Hubert Ashby and Earl and Gale McDuffie.

The boys said they were playing about the railroad yards Saturday evening and climbed into a box car. The train started, and fearing they would be injured if they attempted to jump out, they waited for the train to stop. They went to sleep and when they awoke yesterday morning they were on a side track in the Big Four railroad yards. Railroad men turned them over to the police and arrangements are now being made to send them back to Mattoon.

The disappearance of the boys was reported Saturday evening to the police of Mattoon and a search was being made.

MEMORY GOD'S MASTER GIFT, SAYS HARDING

President-Elect Delivers Memorial Address at National Home of Lodge of Elks.

By the Associated Press.

BEDFORD, Va., Dec. 6.—President-elect Harding yesterday re-declared a promise to his boyhood friend, Henry M. Stowe, now a blind resident of the Elks' National Home here, and practiced his own precepts of "memory's revelations in fellowship and friendship" which formed the basis of an address delivered at the annual memorial exercises at the national home of the Lodge of Elks.

It was at the invitation of Stowe, formerly a business man of Marlon, O., that Senator Harding as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency, agreed to deliver the memorial oration at the Elks' National Home, and when he was nominated he repeated his promise to be carried out irrespective of the result of his campaign.

Addresses Friend of Youth.
So today he delivered the address declaring in the presence of the friend of his youth that "it is not given to all men to inspire great shafts of granite or tablets of bronze, but it is the privilege of every living being to plant an everlasting friendship in some fellow breast and gather all the fruit it bears."

The oration was delivered in the open beneath the mild sun of an Indian summer day, from the portico of the national home, while 2000 Elks and friends from all parts of Virginia gathered on the lawn to take part in the exercises of the order, in memory of 14 brothers who had died during the year.

"The greatest gift in God's master bestowal upon man is memory," said Senator Harding in opening his memorial oration.

Memory Life's Storehouse.
"It is the storehouse of everything in life worth while. It fashions character and inspires all hope. It takes all the impressions of human existence and by some alchemy of love removes the dross and makes golden cross of faith which is the rosary to every human prayer."

"None cannot fancy a life fit to live without the memory's revelations in fellowships and friendships, without love and attachments; without encouragements and endearments, without inspirations and the consciousness of achievements."

Recalling the experiences of an insane man who had his sanity restored by a surgical operation at the expense of his memory, the orator continued.

"We are met in memory today in grateful, fraternal memory, in behalf of those who have taken the fork of the road to eternal peace. Ours is not a memorial of grief. Only happy memories are becoming to the departed, only helpful memories are worth while to the living. If the departed brethren could know of our memorial, if we could solve the great mystery of mysteries and know that they knew, we should still attain our memorial above the murmurings of sorrow. For them the book of life is closed. Sorrow has had its becoming expressions, but normal, natural interest is in the living. Indeed, we are met for the living, else this meeting would be in vain. We are met to remind ourselves that as we live, so shall our memories endure. We come to a fresh conclusion today that in our daily lives we are making memorials and it is the privilege of every human being to leave such a memory as he would like to have recalled."

Influence of Example.
The influence of example was illustrated by the Senator with two experiences of his own, in which by words of cheer to men who had become the victims of strong drink he had had the satisfaction of turning them away from the paths they were following into a successful life. Of the disappointments of public life, he said:

"How often do we criticize harshly when we ought to bestow a garland. We do it in private life and leave a wound where praise would be more becoming. We do it in public life and withhold from sacrificing public men the one compensation that might atone."

ELABORATE SETTINGS IN "THE FURNACE"

"The Stealers" and a New Fatty Arbuckle Comedy Other Local Features.

"The Furnace," with Agnes Ayres in the leading role, which opened yesterday at the New Grand Central and West End Lyric, is in point of production, settings, costuming, atmosphere and photography a notable motion picture achievement. Although the theme, a dissatisfied wife who plans an elopement with a polished villain, is not new, the story is handled in a big way that gives it a touch of novelty in treatment, if not in subject matter. There is an unusually good cast, including Milton Sills and the always reliable Theodore Roberts. There are sumptuous scenes at Monte Carlo and in London drawing rooms and Miss Ayres wears some wonderful gowns. A right-thinking young man who had admired the heroine before her marriage is saved by the timely intervention of her foolish and impulsive elopement. Several interesting short features also are on the bill.

"The Stealers," written and produced by William Christy Cabanne, a former St. Louisan, entertained large audiences at the Liberty Theater yesterday. It has many of the spiritual qualities of that other great success, "The Miracle Man." The leading character is a traveling evangelist, whose nature has been warped by a domestic tragedy. Because his wife has deserted him he plans revenge on all mankind. On his travels he takes with him a band of crooks who pick the worshippers' pockets while he is preaching the gospel to them. He persists in his villainy until a stroke of lightning blinds him. Then his faith returns, and one by one he converts his light-fingered followers. The plot is rather strained to bring about a happy ending for everybody. A Sunshine comedy, a Mutt and Jeff, and another installment of Bride 13 also are on the program.

Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle lays aside the slapstick and tries his hand at legitimate comedy with considerable success in "The Life of the Party," a film version of an Irvin S. Cobb story, which opened yesterday at the Missouri.

Arbuckle here has the role of a lawyer who doesn't know a great deal about the law, but has a laugh-compelling personality which carries him through. His geniality and good nature and his penchant for injecting comedy into otherwise dry and uninteresting proceedings are assets which win for him a big clientele. Some of his antics as a lawyer are most amusing. The program also includes a Mack Sennett comedy, a Missouri News Weekly and a nature study in colors.

The feature picture at the Delmonte is a rather melodramatic offering entitled "The Branding Iron," with Barbara Castleton and James Kirkwood in the leading roles. The "big scene" is one in which a jealous husband marks his wife with a cattle brand to signify that she is his "property." Several short features also are on the bill.

"Milestones," a period drama, based on a stage play of the same title, opened a four-day engagement at the Kings Theater. The attraction at the Pershing today and tomorrow will be "North Wind's Malice," a Rex Beach story. "Dinty," with Wesley (Freddie) Barry, opened for a week's engagement at the Central.

QUESTIONNAIRE ON BUSINESS CONDITIONS

List Sent Out by Valley Association to Get Ideas for Program of Development.

The Mississippi Valley Association, an organization with headquarters in St. Louis and membership in 27 states of the Mississippi Valley, is seeking through a questionnaire a program of effort for the economic, industrial and commercial development of the valley. The questions are:

1. Do you believe the individual and financial condition of business in the United States to be basically sound?
 2. How do you account (a) for the present depression in business? (b) For the public's attitude toward business?
 3. What additional systems of credits should be inaugurated (if any) to release money when urgently needed in our agricultural and industrial centers?
 4. Do you think present market conditions are predicted wholly upon the law of supply and demand and if not, what else is responsible?
 5. What kind of insidious and unfortunate propaganda have come to your attention that would lead the public to erroneous conclusions with regard to market conditions and business generally?
 6. What part of justified and constructive business propaganda should be given general publicity in these days of readjustment?

WEST VIRGINIA AND ALABAMA MINERS TO FIGHT TO FINISH
By the Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 6.—The United Mine Workers of America plan to carry on a struggle with the coal operators of Alabama and Mingo County, W. Va., "to a finish," said a statement issued here last night by the union officials.

According to the statement, the miners' international board unanimously adopted a declaration, promising the Alabama and West Virginia miners "the full moral and financial assistance of the international union."

The declaration adopted by the board criticized the West Virginia Governor for calling out Federal troops, and asserted that if he were truthful to his oath of office he would disarm private detectives, who, it was said, are employed by the operators. Regarding the Alabama situation, the declaration said, "It is questionable whether the people of Armenia, whose sufferings have shocked the world, are in any worse circumstances than the oppressed mine workers of Alabama."

TROOPS BREAK UP VIRGINIA MOB

WISE, Va., Dec. 6.—With the arrival early today of detachments of National Guard troops from Roanoke and Lynchburg the authorities believe they have under control the situation resulting from the storming yesterday of the county jail by a mob bent on lynching a negro charged with assaulting and robbing an aged merchant.

The determined resistance of Sheriff Corder and his deputies who barricaded in the jail and the death of Tate Blondell, alleged leader of the mob, during the exchange of shots, effectively checked the mob until the arrival of the troops. Threats that another and larger

"Best by Every Test"

Insist on the Best MILK

Particular housewives insist on St. Louis Dairy Company's milk for their tables because they know it's pure, wholesome and rich.

They know it's pure and wholesome because it's procured, pasteurized, bottled and delivered under the most sanitary supervision.

They know it's rich and of even quality, year after year, because the policy of the St. Louis Dairy Company for over half a century has been to give its many thousands of patrons, only the best milk obtainable.

They also know it's true economy to buy St. Louis Dairy Company's milk, because it contains those nourishing properties so essential to robust health of mind and body.

Drink more milk, but insist on the best.

A Service That Gains New Customers Daily

The business of Conrad's seven stores is far more than a matter of taking orders. Each store is an institution devoted to the conservation of the health of its patrons. It is highly essential that foods be selected from reliable sources and placed in the homes of customers with as little store delay as possible. To accomplish this and to maintain low prices is a problem which has been solved by Conrad's by locating its stores where they are accessible to large numbers of people. Avoid the vexations so frequently incident to shopping around for supplies. To trade at any of Conrad's stores insures satisfaction and economy.

VICTIM IN ONE OF EIGHT HOLDUPS
SHOT IN THE BACK

W. L. Massa, Carpenter, Seriously Wounded by One of Three Negro Robbers at Marcus and Northland.

Eight holdups were reported to the police within six hours last night, one of them resulting in the dangerous wounding of the man who was held up.

William L. Massa, 27 years old, a carpenter, of 1224A Pendleton avenue, who was shot by a robber, was in a serious condition today in the Deaconess Hospital, his wound being in the abdomen. He was accosted by three negroes on Northland avenue, near Marcus avenue, at 5:45 last evening, and waited while they crossed the street toward him. As they came up to him, one of the negroes pressed a revolver against his back, and the others searched him. He had little of value in his pockets, but he heard the revolver click, and it was then discharged, the bullet entering his back. The police think, from Massa's description of the affair, that the holder of the revolver pulled the trigger through nervousness. The three robbers ran away in an alley.

Four Men in Two Holdups.
Arthur W. Emerson of 5909 Highland avenue was stopped by four men on Garfield avenue, near Hamilton avenue, at 9 p. m., and was robbed of $19. As the robbers released Emerson, they saw Robert B. Martin of 5904 North Market street, walking on the other side of the street, and they went over and robbed him of $10.

Edward Henderson, a negro, of 1021B North Leffingwell avenue, was robbed of $8 by three white men near his home at 11:25 p. m. Policemen pursued the men into an alley and fired three shots at them.

John Baer of 2907 Gamble street was dragged into an alley near Eighteenth and Biddle streets, at 6 o'clock and was robbed by three men who, he says, took $227.

Not long after this at Thirteenth and Carr streets, H. A. Wilshaw of 1246 Biddle street was robbed by three men, who, he says, took $160. At 8:30, in front of 1405 North Eleventh street, Walter Taylor of 2006 North Eleventh street, was held up by three negroes and robbed of $3.

Woman Dragged in Alley.
Walter B. Eskew of 5243 Manchester avenue was held up in the yards of the Hyde Park Press Brick Co., King's highway and Manchester avenue, at 7 o'clock, and $47 was taken.

Besides last night's robberies, the police were informed that, at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, Mrs. Mary Bennett, 55, of 4111 Laclede avenue, was dragged into an alley near Laclede and Spring avenues by two negroes, who knocked her down and took her hand bag. They found in the bag only apples, cakes and a small dress, which she was taking to her daughter. They threw the bag and its contents away.

Three Burglaries Reported.
Three families living in the same vicinity of the West End reported losses of sums of money totalling $608, which disappeared in burglaries last night. The similarity of all the burglaries leads the police to believe one man committed all. More than $400 was taken in a downtown safe robbery.

The home of Carl Hoffman, 5214A Kensington avenue, was entered apparently by a man who climbed the back porch and went through a kitchen window. Hoffman found $385 and a diamond-set Masonic ring valued at $50 gone from a closet in the dining room when he went there this morning.

Similar means were used in entering the home of Charles Waldman, 5663A Vernon avenue, where Waldman and a roomer, Leon Leonard, found their trousers on the kitchen floor this morning, the pockets rifled. From Waldman's pocket $165 was taken and $49 from Leonard's.

James Barry of 5728 Chamberlain avenue left his pay envelope, containing $68.96, in his overcoat pocket last night and the empty envelope was found in the back yard today. Entrance had evidently been gained by picking the lock of the kitchen door.

Store Safe Rifled.
Joseph Guetline, proprietor of a dry goods store at 804 South Fourth street, found his safe open when he opened his store for the day, and $300 worth of Liberty bonds, $80 cash and $65 in War Savings Stamps had disappeared, as had two deeds of trust. An iron bar was found pried off a basement window.

CITY WANTS HALF OF STATE INCOME TAX DERIVED HERE

Comptroller Nolte to Have Bill Carrying That Provision Presented to Next Legislature.

PROPOSES OTHER
REVENUE CHANGES

Thinks State Should Bear Part of Expense of Collecting License Fees — For Auto Tag Change Also.

Comptroller Nolte today made it known that he is preparing to have introduced in the Legislature a bill to provide that the cities and counties of the State shall receive one-half the amount of State income tax which they collect.

At present, out of a State income tax levy of approximately $3,000,000 a year, St. Louis receives no share of this money which it collects for the State, and the State pays only the actual expense incurred by the city in making the collection.

Must Have More Funds.
The Comptroller said that with the city asking for 1000 more policemen, with a payroll increase of $125,000 a month, and with the firemen asking for an eight-hour day, involving an additional expenditure of $1,500,000 a year, the city must have increased revenue.

The Comptroller said he also would introduce a bill asking that the State bear the city's expense of collecting State license fees in St. Louis. In the last year, he said, the city at its own expense, collected $286,776.24 in license taxes for the State. He said he believed the State should bear its proportionate share of the $70,000 a year expense of running the License Collector's office.

He also suggested that the State could save money by permitting the City License Collector to collect the State automobile license payments. At present the Secretary of State maintains his office at the city hall for the collection of State automobile license fees. After obtaining a State license the applicant has to go to the License Commissioner's office for a city license. This the Comptroller said, caused duplication of work and inconvenience to the public, and the city could collect for both classes of licenses if the State would bear its share of the expense.

Will Ask for Conference.
The Comptroller said there might be other ways in which the State would share the expense of city government, and he said he would ask the Mayor to call a conference of city department heads and ask them for suggestions as to expenses which the State should legitimately bear in connection with services rendered to the State by the city.

Comptroller Nolte said the necessity of additional revenue to meet increased expenses could not be met by additional taxation as the city had now reached the constitutional limit in its tax rate. Under the Constitution the city cannot collect more than $1.35 on the $100 valuation for municipal purposes. It is collecting this amount now and out of this collection it has only $1.27 on the $100 valuation for strictly municipal purposes, the other 8 cents being divided between the public library, the zoo and the art museum.

CONCERT BY EUTERPEAN CLUB

W. C. Sheridan Will Direct Program at Central High Auditorium. The Euterpean Choral Club, directed by W. C. Sheridan, will give a concert Thursday evening at Central High School auditorium. BALL FOR BENEFIT OF ORPHANS' HOME

Will Be Given at the Hotel Statler This Evening; Supper
in the Assembly Room.

ONE of the largest balls of the season will be given at the Hotel Statler this evening for the benefit of the St. Louis Protestant Orphans' Home. The affair will follow the opening of "Monsieur Beaucaire" at the American Theater, which will be a part of the benefit. Instead of the buffet supper originally planned to follow the ball, a regular "sit down" supper, served at individual tables, in the assembly room adjoining the ballroom, has been decided upon.

Among the women who will give the parties for "Beaucaire," and who also will attend the ball, will be: Mrs. Benjamin F. Bush, William Poley, Alex Robertson, J. P. Terrell, Sterling Edmunds, Robert Burkham, Cecil D. Gregg, J. H. Holmes, J. Dwight Dana, Edward Nugent, Aaron Bantz, Thomas May, William K. Bixby, Kenneth Green, Charles Rice, James McCluney, Alvin Goldman, Samuel Plant, A. R. Deacon, Oscar Herf, William V. Schevill, Harry McCormack, Ingram F. Boyd, C. L. Martin, J. L. BETTER THAN WHISKEY FOR COLDS AND FLU

New Elixir, Called Aspirinal, Medicated With Latest Scientific Remedies, Used and Endorsed by European and American Army Surgeons to Cut Short a Cold and Prevent Complications.

Every Druggist in U. S. Instructed to Refund Price While You Wait at Counter if Relief Does Not Come Within Two Minutes.

Delightful Taste, Immediate Relief, Quick Warm-Up.

The sensation of the year in the drug trade is Aspirinal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the common people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have tried.

All drug stores are now supplied with the wonderful new elixir, so all you have to do to get rid of that cold is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspirinal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls with four teaspoonfuls of water in a glass. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel your cold fading away like a dream within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for the druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

When your cold or cough is relieved, take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and babies, for Aspirinal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for infants and children.

HONOR GUEST AT A DINNER, TOMORROW

Miss Mignon Morrow

Social Items

Announcement is made by Daniel Evans of 6798 Pershing avenue of the engagement of his daughter, Miss Mabel Lillian Evans, to George Douglas Dupont. The wedding will take place Dec. 15. Miss Evans was educated at Mary Institute. Mr. Dupont is the son of Mrs. John Alexander Dupont of New York. He has made his home in St. Louis for about three years.

Miss Mignon Morrow, who is visiting her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Morrow of 704 Interdrive, will be the honor guest at a dinner tomorrow evening, with which William J. Hittner Jr. of 5553 Bartmer avenue will entertain.

The marriage of Miss May Cornwall and William Langton Jr. will be solemnized Dec. 20 at 8:30 o'clock at St. Peter's Church, the Rev. Dr. Phillips officiating. A small reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick R. Cornwall, 5052 Waterman avenue, will follow. The couple will reside in Chicago for about a year, later going to Detroit where they will make their permanent home.

Miss Eugenia Uhrl has chosen Jan. 15 as the date of her marriage to James A. Maritz. The ceremony will take place in the evening at Christ Church Cathedral, and will be followed by a dinner for the members of the two families at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Uhrl, 2163 South Grand avenue. Mrs. Marc Gautier, sister of the bride to be, will be matron of honor, and Miss Margaret Stoddard of Kansas City, who is attending Ogonts School in Pennsylvania, probably will be one of the bridesmaids. Miss Uhrl was educated at Mary Institute and the Castle School at Tarrytown, N. Y. Mr. Maritz is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Maritz of 3445 Magnolia avenue.

Miss Pamela Harrison of 5371 Waterman avenue, who is a student at Smith College, is expected home for the Christmas holidays. Her brother, Stuart E. Harrison, who is a student at Princeton, will be at home for the holidays. On Dec. 27 their mother, Mrs. John W. Harrison, will entertain with a buffet supper for them at home.

A Christmas sale will be held tomorrow afternoon and evening at the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, Cates and Goodfellow avenues, under the direction of the guild. A turkey dinner for 250 will be served at night.

The first meeting of the season of the Women's Section of the Papyrus Club was held at 11 o'clock this morning at the home of the president, Mrs. Charles Henry Hemenz of 324 North Newstead avenue. The Neighborhood Association will give its annual auction bridge at the Woman's Club, 4600 Lindell boulevard, Monday afternoon, Dec. 13, as a feature in the campaign to raise $100.00 for the activities of the association which supports the Neighborhood House at 817 North Nineteenth street, the Day Nursery at 1844 O'Fallon street, and other philanthropic and Americanization work. At the Day Nursery 700 children are finding a second home, while their mothers are at work, and the association is making progress with its boys and girls' clubs, sewing clubs and con. unity activities. The Thrift Club now has 300 members. A large attendance is expected at the bridge party, the entertainment committee for which comprises Mrs. Louis McCall, chairman; Mrs. W. T. Ravencroft and Mrs. Charles Ashcroft. Miss Nellie Richards is president. Mrs. Thomas H. West, who is vice president, is sending out the tickets from her home, 11 Westmoreland place.

The annual class social of the seniors at Washington University will be given Tuesday evening, in the girls' gymnasium in McMillan Hall. Partners for the dancing that will be a feature of the affair have been decided by drawing. Officials of the freshmen, sophomore and junior classes will be among the guests. Prof. and Mrs. Rider, Dr. and Mrs. Lippincott and Miss Fenton, dean of women, will be chaperones.

The women of the Church of the Redeemer will give a silver tea Thursday afternoon from 3 until 5 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. C. S. Jones, 5156 Cates avenue. The Rev. A. K. Stinson will speak on "The Psychological Helpfulness of the Women Workers of the Church."

The Theta Delta Pi Fraternity gave a surprise kitchen shower at the home of Miss Mary Callaway, 5065 Cabanne avenue, Thursday in honor of Miss Georgia C. Spalding of 6127 Pershing avenue, whose marriage to Fred Hatch of New York will take place next year.

The St. Louis Woman's Club announces a Christmas dance, Dec. 28. Notice must be sent to Mrs. Merrill of the number of guests to be entertained at least 24 hours in advance.

A musical and tea will be given Dec. 11 at 2:30 o'clock at the Woman's Club by St. Mary's Guild of St. Peter's Episcopal Church. Proceeds will be devoted to Epiphany Chapel and Grace Church Holy Cross House. In the same day the guild will hold a Christmas sale of hand-made articles from 10 until 2 o'clock at the Woman's Club. The officers of St. Mary's Guild are Mrs. H. J. Pettigill, president, Mrs. E. W. La Beaume, H. T. Brady, G. Lacy Crawford and J. T. Hollenbeck, vice presidents; Mrs. Joseph Ranken, secretary; Mrs. J. G. Hoyt, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. J. G. Livingston, treasurer.

ST. LOUIS SOPRANO 'PLEASES' SYMPHONY CONCERT AUDIENCE

Instrumental Program Included Selections From Leon's

"L'Oracolo." Miss Alma Wibling, a soprano, who received all of her training in St. Louis, pleased a large audience as the soloist at the Symphony Orchestra popular concert at the Odeon yesterday afternoon. Miss Wibling's methods are not dramatic, neither does she attempt vocal pyrotechnics of the coloratura type. Vocalization and enunciation, with painstaking adherence to the score, are her principal claims to distinction. Her singing of the aria, "More Real in His Low Estate," from Gounod's "Queen of Sheba," with orchestral accompaniment, was well received. She also sang, with piano accompaniment, Clough-Lightner's "Heart of Mine," Campbell-Tipton's "A Spirit Flower," and Woodman's "A Song of Joy."

An interesting feature of the instrumental program was the playing of selections from Leon's opera, "L'Oracolo." Other numbers were Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance" March, Lalo's overture to "Le Roy d'Ys," J. Edward German's three dances from "Henry VIII," and Johann Strauss' "Joys of Life" waltz.

Minister Receives Threats.

By the Associated Press. EAST ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 6.—Rev. Harry W. Bowdler, secretary of the Lord Day Alliance, which is conducting a campaign for a stricter observance of the Sabbath, has telegraphed the police from Scranton, Pa., that he had received Black Hand letters threatening violence to his home here, and requested the local police to guard it in his absence.

OFATUNA
The simple minded natives of the Society Islands believe there is a hereafter for pigs.

If they have been very good little pigs, they will go to Ofatuna when they die.

The more intelligent natives of this country will smile at this very evident fallacy;

For they know that many good little pigs eventually go to CHILDS.

There, as delicious country sausage, they spend the hours of a multitude.

Use Soothing Musterole

When those sharp pains go shooting through your head, when your skull seems as if it would split, just rub a little Musterole on your temples and neck.
It draws out the inflammation, soothes away the pain, usually giving quick relief.
Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister.
Many doctors and nurses frankly recommend Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheuma-

four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.
Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dan-

$1.25 GAS WOULD PAY 12.7 PER CENT
ON COMMON STOCKCity Has Contended That Laclede Company Never Has Been Entitled to Pay Anything on Such Issues.WHAT DIVIDEND RECORD SHOWSMore Protests From Public on Proposed Higher Rate Than on Any Similar Public Utility Proposal.The increase in prices for gas which the Laclede Gas Light Co. is seeking to collect in 1921 would yield the company a profit of $1-253,118 for the year, according to the company's own figures, or a sum sufficient to pay a return of 12.7 per cent on its common stock.The increase would require householders to pay $1.25 per 1000 feet of gas, whereas they now are paying at the rate of 85 cents. The increase thus is 47 per cent and is producing, according to Assistant City Counselor Hamilton, a greater number of protests from the public to his office than any previous similar application of any public utility, not excepting the United Railways fare increase.The company's figures on its profit under the new rates are based on the assumption that, while it has contracted for coal at an increased cost of $2,800,000 for the year, the price it will obtain for coke made from that coal will decline. An investigation by the Post-Dispatch in fields from which the Laclede obtains its coal revealed, as stated in this newspaper Friday, that coal operators believe that the Laclede contracted for coal at too high a price.
The city, in addition, is contending that the company's assumption that its return from coke will be less than is reasonable to expect.Company's Common Stock.
However, a return of 12.7 per cent on common stock, which the company's figures indicate, serves to recall that it frequently has been asserted and never denied by the company that the majority of its common stock does not represent any investment of money in the service of the company, but was issued early in the company's history as a bonus.
In 1889 the Laclede purchased a competitor company, the St. Louis Gas Co. It gave in payment $7,500, 000 cash which, it is declared, was the maximum value of the property acquired. In addition, however, the Laclede created $7,500,000 of common stock and gave the entire issue as a bonus to owners of the St. Louis Gas Co. for their consent to the merger.For eight years this common stock paid no dividends, but the Laclede company, after that period, began to flourish so prosperously that it began to pay dividends on the common stock. Its prosperity was so great eventually that it established and maintained for several years a regular dividend of 7 per cent on this bonus common stock. Its rates for gas were yielding an income which, in addition, created a surplus of $1,070,000. This sum was disbursed in 1917 as a stock dividend, increasing the sum of common stock which represents no money investment to $8,700,000. Meanwhile the Laclede had sold $2,000,000 additional common stock for cash, declaring that it invested that sum in the service of the public.Company's Dividend History.
The dividend history of the company shows that in 22 years after it began paying dividends, it disbursed 126 per cent in common stock dividends, or more than $12,500,000. The city always has contended that it never has been entitled to pay anything on its common stock.The city further has contended that a physical valuation of the company's property will corroborate its assertion that the common stock is water. The Public Service Commission, accepting this suggestion, caused the company to submit a valuation. This the company has done, asserting that the original cost of the plant was $42,000,000 and that the cost to reproduce it at this time would be $69,000,000. It is basing its present application on the valuation of $42,000,000, asking a return in excess of 7 per cent of that figure.
The engineers of the Public Service Commission have not yet checked the Laclede's estimate of its worth, but the chief engineer of the commission recently testified to his belief that a fair valuation of the company's property would not exceed $28,000,000. The commission arbitrarily fixed $50,000,000 as a valuation for purposes of rate-making pending the check of the valuation.
The outstanding securities total $29,200,000.The city will be called upon Tuesday to present its evidence against the application for the increase to $1.25.DETROIT HOMES WILL NOT HAVE TO PAY INCREASESpecial to the Post-Dispatch.
DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 6.—The prospect in Detroit that household consumers of gas would be com-pelled to pay an increase in rates from 79 cents to $1 has been averted by an agreement reached whereby large consumers will no longer receive a lower price, but will pay at the 79-cent rate. They have been paying 69, 59 and 49 cents, according to the amount of gas consumed.
The new schedule will add $1,076, 619 to the company's annual income, or 8.8 per cent. At the 79-cent rate the company states its ability to operate and produce a net income sufficient to pay 8 per cent on its outstanding common stock of $9,500,000.One of the elements of low operating costs which the company asserts for itself, is that it owns coal mines that last year produced 160,000 tons of the 400,000 tons it used for the production of gas. The company manufactures gas by the by-product and water-gas methods and purchases a limited volume of gas produced in one of the city's-by-product plants.The sendout of the company is approximately 11,000,000,000 feet through 1145 miles of mains. It sets the valuation of its plant at $26,306,142, with a present selling value of $45,262,290.VISITOR FROM IRELAND SAYS TROUBLE IS CHIEFLY RELIGIOUSBelieves Civil War Between Catholics and Protestants Would Follow Granting of Home Rule Now.The trouble in Ireland is mainly religious, aggravated by land monopoly, according to Miss Margaret West of Limerick, Ireland, who came to the United States last August and is now in St. Charles in the interest of the Rev. Father Baker's Orphanage at New York City.The fight, she says, is between the Protestants in the northern part of the country and Sinn Feiners, who are Catholics, in the south. She thinks that if England gave Ireland home rule now there would be a civil war between the Protestants of the north and Catholics of the south.Miss West came to America shortly after one of her three brothers, who served in the northern part of the world war, was killed in France six weeks before the armistice was signed. She says she likes America, but expects to go back to Ireland in two years.Skin troubles

MOVIES CROWDED, PEWS EMPTY, MINISTER SAYS

The Rev. Ivan Lee Holt Presents Plea for More Respect for Sabbath.

The Rev. Ivan Lee Holt of St. John's Methodist Church, South, preaching yesterday on "The Use of Sunday," alluded to current proposals for stricter Sunday laws, and spoke of the question as one for both the individual and the community. He said in part:

"Marcus Aurelius once wrote, 'What brings harm to a man in a community brings harm to the community in which he lives.' The use of Sunday is both an individual and community problem, and opportunity. To some, Sunday is a day of rest; to others it is a day of recreation, a day of entertainment; to others it is a day of church-going or a day of soul-enlargement.

"There are two views of the relationship of the old Jewish Sabbath to the Christian Sunday. One view is that Jesus broke away from the Jewish Sabbath and instituted a Sunday of personal freedom. Another is that the Christian Sunday is but a transplanted Jewish Sabbath, and must be hedged about by the same kinds of laws. The truth lies midway between these extreme positions.

Movies Get Crowded.

"One illustration will serve to show how much the idea of Sunday has changed. When the foundations of this Government were laid, the church services furnished not only the religious worship but the entertainment for the week. In our section of the city there are now three or four moving picture shows, any one of which has more people on Sunday night than a dozen of our largest churches. There are thousands who sleep on Sunday afternoon, go to dance meetings, and picture show on Sunday night without a thought of church. Amid such changes, what ought to be the Christian attitude? I leave to each Christian individual and his conscience minute decisions.

"In my way of thinking there are three mistakes some Christians make:

1. They call a line of conduct wrong on Sunday which is right during the week, when no moral quality attaches to the deed.
2. They fight Sunday amusements, and let weekday amusements go unregulated.
3. They regard the Sabbath as an institution to be saved rather than a day to be used.

For Sunday Preservation.

"However, all earnest Christians, for the preservation of the Christian Sunday, ought to agree on these fundamental positions:

1. No man has a right to use his Sunday as he pleases. The community has something to say about what he does, and a right to regulate his conduct.
2. The man who thinks only of his body and physical recreation on Sunday is a traitor to his better self, and an ingrate in the sight of God, who gave him Sunday to use for the enlargement of his whole life.
3. The man without Sunday is the man without God. A crime wave sweeps over our city; the men who are responsible for it know not God and have no respect for Christian institutions.

"I call on all Christians, men and women, to help preserve respect for Sunday as a day of opportunity for soul enlargement and life enlargement."

2 MURDER CHARGES AGAINST ALLEGED DESERTER FROM NAVY

Milwaukee Man, Confessed Slayer of Clubman in New York, Held in Another Homicide.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—John Reidy of Milwaukee, alleged deserter from the navy, who confessed Saturday he had killed Leeds Vaughn Waters, wealthy clubman, here, Nov. 3, is held today on a charge of homicide in connection with the murder of Frank Barbor, near the West Seventy-second street entrance to Central Park, on Nov. 23.

Charles Benner and Edward Kohn, alleged confederates of Reidy in the hold-up of Barbor and the shooting that followed, also were charged with homicide.

Reidy was implicated in the Barbor case, the police said, in a confession in which he declared Benner had shot and killed Barbor.

Reidy, Benner and Kohn, with Roland Noak, who is held also in connection with the Waters murder, were taken by detectives to the spot in Central Park where Barbor was killed. Kohn, the police say, led them over the ground traversed by his companions before and after the murder.

ROOMER AND JEWELRY MISSING

Mrs. Lella M. Gelson, proprietor of a rooming house at 5149 Westminster place, reported to the police last night that a man who had rented a room at her home yesterday morning, paying her with a check for $12, had disappeared shortly afterward.

Other roomers in the place, she said, had discovered their rooms ransacked and $500 in jewelry and clothing gone.

TABLET UNVEILED FOR 264 35TH MEN WHO DIED OVERSEAS

Their Names Are Recorded in Marble in the Central Court of the Jefferson Memorial.

The names of the St. Louis volunteers of the Thirty-fifth Division, who died in overseas service, 264 men and officers, are now recorded in marble in the central court of the Jefferson Memorial, at the right and a little in front of the heroic figure of Thomas Jefferson. A large outdoor gathering saw the unveiling of the new memorial tablet shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, following an hour's introductory exercises in the auditorium of the Memorial Building. About 500 persons were in the auditorium, and a much greater number saw the final ceremony outside.

Perhaps the fact about the memorial tablet which caused the most favorable comment was the absence of distinctions of rank. The names of those commemorated appear on the tablet in alphabetical order, with no reference to rank or command.
The tablet, which is gray marble harmonizing with the hue of the stone wall behind it, is 12½ feet high and 5 feet wide, and is surrounded by a marble border one foot wide. It is a gift from the Relatives' Auxiliary of the St. Louis National Guard to the Missouri Historical Society, which has the Jefferson Memorial as its home. The money for the tablet was raised by entertainments given by the auxiliary.

Inscription Above Names.
The inscription above the names is: "Dedicated to the memory of the St. Louis men of the Thirty-fifth Division, American Expeditionary Forces, who fell in the service of their country during the World War, by the Relatives' Auxiliary of the St. Louis National Guard, A. E. F." Beneath the names are the words of Lincoln, "That these dead shall not have died in vain."

Col. Edmund J. McMahon, who presided at the exercises, was the only man present in uniform, except a group of buglers. The men of the 138th Infantry, whom Col.
McMahon trained and took overseas, know that his standards and practices as an officer in dealing with his men were the opposite of the "hard-boiled" type sometimes seen among regular army officers. Col.
McMahon spoke of the dead in a manner which brought tears to gold-star parents and to others in the audience.

"Our feeling for them now," he said, "is not so much sorrow as pride. They knew the possibilities in 1917, but they volunteered. They knew the probabilities in 1918, but they led the charge. They were chosen by no accident. They were the best, the greatest souls among us. We passed the physical and the mental tests with them, but they alone passed the final test. We think of them as the advance guard, the pioneer forces, who have gone on to clear the way for us, and who will be there when we come, to lead us to our eternal billets."

The invocation was pronounced by Dean Davis of Christ Church Cathedral, and Secretary Findly of the Mayor's office, spoke on behalf of aMoyr Kiehl, who was out of the city.
He appealed to national patriotism, and said the war should have the effect of wiping out sectionalism forever.

Col. J. E. Rieger of Kirkville, who brought the 138th Infantry home from France, was named on the printed program, but was not present, and Rabbi Leon Harrison spoke next. He told of the joyous scenes of armistice day, and of the return of the St. Louis units, and described in contrast the scenes in homes to which the boys who went away had not returned. He spoke of America as a land worth dying for, and told of his own experience, as a poor youth, in getting a high school and college education in America, which he said he could not, under like circumstances, have obtained in his native England or in any other nation but this. He expressed his thankfulness that religious liberty, and free education, had become a matter of course in this nation.

Tablet Is Unveiled.
Three members of the St. Louis Quartet, which sang to the soldiers overseas, sang two numbers during the indoor exercises. The indoor gathering then moved out into the space near the east wall of the open-air central space of the Memorial Building, and the tablet was unveiled by Mrs. Harold Hall, president of the Relatives' Auxiliary, who presented it to the Missouri Historical Society. Ambassador David R.
Francis responded for the society.

Ambassador Francis spoke of the motives of the United States in entering the war—to preserve and defend American rights, and to end war itself. Civilization cannot endure another great war, he declared.
"Imperial autocracy is dead," he continued, "but class despotism, known as Bolshevism, is a worse autocracy.
It is the arch-antagonist of all government. Conservative organized labor saved Europe from the insanity of Bolshevism."

The exercises ended with the sounding of taps by buglers, the singing of the "Star-Spangled Banner," and the benediction by the Rev. H. L. Reader, a chaplain in the Thirty-fifth Division.
Floral pieces, contributed by different organizations, were left about the base of the tablet. The largest of these was from the Relatives' Auxiliary.

REFORMERS MOVE TO CAPITAL WITH SANE SUNDAY PLAN

Congressman Uphaw to Lead Organization in War on Gambling and Com-

Amusements.

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE LAWS TO BE URGED

Bureau Also Backs Measure Forbidding U. S. Ambassadors to Drink Alcoholic Liquor at Banquets or in Homes.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Representative Will D. Uphaw of the Atlanta (Ga.) District arrived here today, ready for the moral uplift program. He is a director of the International Reform Bureau and a trustee of the Anti-Saloon League. Dr. Wilbur Flak Crafts, superintendent of the bureau, has selected him to deliver the opening address at the reform conference to be held here next week.

Uphaw declared he would work for a "sane" Sunday law, and carry the fight for morality into the heart of New York City and other centers. He would "appeal" to lawyers to quit appearing in court in behalf of "notorious bootleggers and gamblers."

Dr. Crafts reiterated today his warning to Republican leaders that they had better enact the Sunday bill for the District of Columbia, prohibition measures and anti-gambling bills.

Dr. Crafts believes that "public indignation at the bribery of ballplayers by gamblers" gives his organization a strategic opportunity to "knock out" gambling, which the world war increased, he said.

The special session of Congress is "disastrously favorable" for passing these measures, Dr. Crafts thinks, "because Republicans are likely to postpone many appropriation bills until after March 4, when they may have a safe majority."

Uphaw declared himself against the "continential Sunday" by which he means the wide open Sunday as observed in Europe. As to a national Sunday observance law, he is not prepared to outline a plan, but he heartily approves the campaign for a Sunday observance law in the District of Columbia.

"Certain prejudicial stories sent out by news agencies trying to poke fun at the extreme movement against 'blue laws' are utterly unfair to the worthy concept of this sane vigorous movement, and in face of the widespread and really appalling effort to defy prohibition, anti-gambling and Sabbath laws, and, indeed, all laws intended to restrain the vicious, I count it both immoral and unpatriotic for any editor or news agency to give encouragement to the lawless by belittling the high purpose of these vigilant reformers."

"Have No Long-Haired Ideas." These reformers have no long-haired idea of doing anything squeamish or foolish, but they do intend to fight, by proclamation, investigation and legislation, all invasions of efforts to undermine all laws affecting morality and sobriety. They know, of course, that men cannot be made moral simply by legislation, but they also recognize that no civilization can live without morality and that therefore it is the duty of law to stand guard at the door of our homes and our churches and fight back the wolves of immorality that are seeking to devour the youth of today.

"These reformers intend to appeal to all the high-minded lawyers to refuse to defend notorious bootleggers and gamblers who thrive on the debauchery of character and the destruction of our homes."

Dr. Crafts, now leading the moral crusade, served notice on the Republican leaders of Congress that they cannot escape responsibility for uplift legislation by hiding behind appropriation bills.

"The International Reform Bureau does not consider itself put out of combat by press interviews which report the Republican leaders on committees for the people get more than enough of them on week nights; and there is now no plausible argument for Sunday baseball."

The crusade reached a climax yesterday when a bill was drawn up for introduction next week, forbidding the people get more than enough of them on week nights; and there is now no plausible argument for Sunday baseball."

"If the Republicans choose to be only a treasury annex, too preoccupied with money matters to even complete the bills on gambling, regulation of motion pictures, and a sane American Sunday for the national capital, the party will have to give the reason why when, two years hence, the new women voters and others have to be shown what worthy use Republican Senators and Representatives

$5,000,000 REVOLVING FUND FOR INLAND WATERWAYS DEVELOPMENT ASKED FOR Items Set Forth as Needed for River Improvement Include Three Totalling $13,000,000 for the Mississippi.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—A revolving fund of $5,000,000 for developmental purposes is being sought by the War Department for the use of the inland and coastwise waterways service during the year beginning next July 1. To cover additional expenses of the service for operation and betterment, the department asks for a further grant of $1,254,350. Two items are among those in the annual book of estimates, totaling nearly $5,000,000, laid before Congress today by the Treasury on behalf of the several Government establishments.

The inland and coastwise waterways service is the branch of the War Department which operates, among other enterprises, the Government-owned barge line on the Mississippi River.

Policy of Department.

The policy of the department toward this and other waterway lines is to have its control indicated by the proviso which it proposes Congress should attach to the appropriations for their maintenance and development. Under this proviso the Secretary of War would be authorized upon the demonstrated success of any line on a commercial enterprise to dispose of it to private interests or to a municipality for a sum sufficient to cover the total outlay of the Government in the establishment of the line under terms insuring the continued operation of the line in accordance with the policy pursued by the Government. The money derived from the sale would be used for the further development of the inland and coastwise waterways of the country.

Among the items set forth as needed for river improvement, under the direction of the army engineers, are the following:

For the Mississippi River from the mouth of the Missouri to Minneapolis, $2,000,000; Mississippi, from the mouth of the Missouri to the mouth of the Ohio, $1,000,000; flood control work on the Lower Mississippi (in charge of the Mississippi River Commission), $10,000,000; Missouri River, from Kansas City to the mouth, $2,100,000; Ohio River, $558,575; Current River, $9750; Osage River, $15,000; Gasconade River, $5000; Arkansas River, $11,535,000.

Building Recommendations.

In the list of public building recommended, the Treasury includes a Federal office building for St. Louis, already authorized by Congress, and proposes for it an appropriation of $25,000,000. It also includes and equip the St. Louis Marine Hospital, $10,000 is requested.

The exact figures as transmitted by Secretary Houston were $4,653,558.75, an increase of nearly $1,000,000 over the appropriation basis for the current year, but $211,000,000 less than the estimates submitted a year ago.

Continuing war costs were directly reflected throughout the estimates, indicating that the Government might be on a $4,000,000,000 basis for some years to come, compared with the $1,000,000,000 maximum preceding the war. The single item of interest on the public debt was almost the pre-war maximum of all appropriations, this total being $222,450,000. In addition there was an estimate of $265,754,864 for the war debt sinking fund.

Of the individual departments, the Army and Navy, as usual, asked for the greatest amounts, the estimate for the military establishment being $699,275,502 and for the naval establishment $658,522,231.

Estimates Given by Houston.

The total estimates as given by Secretary Houston follow:

Legislative (Congress), $9,324,040.

Executive (White House and Government departments), $125,448,379.

Judicial (Supreme Court), $1,589,215.

Department of Agriculture, $41,389,359.

Foreign intercourse, $11,983,359.

Indian affairs, $11,989,703.

Pensions, $265,190,000.

Panama Canal, $16,187,255.

Public works $250,925,194.

Postal service, $555,405,902.

Miscellaneous, $875,154,741.

Permanent annual appropriations, $1,300,776,351.

These estimates, prepared by the Democratic administration, are for the operation of the Government during the coming and first fiscal year of the new Republican administration. Republican leaders in the Senate and House already have forecast a sharp cut in the total, and within the week the House committee will begin the work of shaping the bills which will carry the sums for the various departments.

The estimates for the postal service will not actually figure in governmental expenditures, since the postal revenues practically cover the cost of operation.

Air Service Estimates.

Included in the estimates for the army and navy is a total $95,000,000 for the development and maintenance of the air service in the two fiscal years ending next June 30. The navy asks for $35,000,000, and the army seeks $60,000,000.

Chief among the estimates for the navy is one of $184,000,000 to continue the 1916 three-year building program. Pay for the navy personnel exceeds it by $923,910.

The army's greatest single item is $215,539,830 for the pay and mileage of officers and men. Subsistence costs for the force is estimated at $64,489,895. An appropriation of $4,489,895 is proposed for the National Guard.

Expenditures on public works suggested under the War Department total $185,134,928, of which $68,997,865 goes to river and harbor development. For improvement of the Mississippi River, $11,535,000, for military posts, fortifications and other works of defense, the army lists $117,153,614.

Included in the miscellaneous items is an estimate of $147,998,520 for the Shipping Board and $160,000,000 for the Bureau of War Risk Insurance.

Care of Service Men.

In its program to take care of disabled soldiers, sailors and marines under the war risk act, the Treasury Department seeks appropriations of $25,000,000 for additional hospitals and dispensary facilities, and $50,000,000 for medical and hospital services. The Federal Board for vocational education asks for $78,000,000 to carry on its work.

The Treasury also seeks $57,038,000 for the annual revenue department, which compares with $42,038,000, spent in the current fiscal year. For prohibition enforcement $7,500,000 is asked. Included in the miscellaneous expenditures are estimates by the various departments for the conduct of strictly departmental affairs, some of which follow: Interstate Commerce Commission, $5,574,000; Federal Trade Commission, $1,055,000; United States Employees' Compensation Commission and compensation fund, $2,926,840; Railroad Labor Board, $550,000.

What Grand Jury Said.

The grand jury, in its report, declared that the extent of primary frauds in St. Louis disclosed by its investigation, had "amazed" its members. It said that frauds were found alike in river wards and residential wards, that under the present system "unscrupulous conmen" could be selected by precinct election officials which will do their bidding, perpetuate themselves in power, and by trades with other committeemen foist upon their parties candidates often unfit for public office. It said that in many precincts the ballots are only counted to ascertain the total number, and that then it is determined to give favored candidates a certain number and only a few to their opponents "for the sake of appearances."

The grand jury laid much of the blame for existing conditions upon the apathy of the public toward them and urged an awakening to the serious situation.

WOMEN IN MOVE FOR REVISION OF ELECTION LAWS

Missouri League Employs Lawyer to Draft Bills to Eradicate Primary and Election Evils.

WOULD CHANGE FORM OF BALLOT

Another Tentative Proposal Would Provide for Recount of Primary Votes and Punishment for Fraud.

A movement to obtain revision of the Missouri primary and election laws, to eradicate some of the evils pointed out Saturday in the final report of the October grand jury to Judge Hartmann, was started this morning by the Missouri League of Women Voters, working in conjunction with a number of St. Louis attorneys.

Joseph W. Jamison, general counsel for the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad, and a former Election Commission Commissioner of St. Louis, was employed to draft the bills and direct the work.

Changes tentatively decided upon are said to mean the enactment of practically an entire new election code, which, in addition to curing some of the corrupt practices which have grown up under present laws, will eliminate defects which have crept into the present code through frequent and sometimes ill-advised amendments.

Among the changes tentatively decided for attention by Jamison are the following:

To change the form of ballot from the present written ballot toward some form of blanket ballot.

To enable candidates regarded as defeated on the face of returns to obtain a recount of primary ballots through court action and providing for punishment in the criminal courts of frauds revealed by such recount.

Safeguards for Canvasses.

To authorize the selection of women for Election Commissioners, election judges and clerks, as members of political central committees and for all other posts of election laws, so far as is possible under the Constitution.

To provide for a new method of counting primary and election ballots by capable men, and to safeguard the canvass of the primary and election returns.

To revise the registration system now in use in the larger cities of the State to minimize the possibility of fraud.

To improve and expand the corrupt practices act.

This list is only tentative, and suggestions or proposed plans will be received by Jamison and given consideration in drafting the bills which are to be presented to the Legislature this winter. Jamison has given the question considerable study, having been a member of a committee of the St. Louis Bar Association which recommended extensive changes in the election laws in a report to the Bar Association last February.

Frederick W. Lehmann, president of the Bar Association, said today that that organization will co-operate in every manner possible to obtain the drafting and enactment of better election laws.

OVERWHELMING VOTE FOR RETURN OF CONSTANTINE

Early Returns on Greek Plebiscite Indicate Plurality

Former King.

PIRAEUS 13,000 FOR AND 900 AGAINST HIM

All Arrangements Made in Athens for Return of Con-land.

By the Associated Press.

ATHENS, Dec. 6.—Returns from the plebiscite held throughout Greece yesterday which was to decide whether the Greek people would recall former King Constantine to the throne made vacant by the death of his son, King Alexander, appear to indicate an overwhelming majority in favor of Constantine resuming power as King.

The vote is being counted as a matter of formality, for the plebiscite was considered farcical in this city and in the country at large. Reports for the nation generally indicate a plurality of 500,000 in favor of the return of Constantine, and claims are made that the entire electorate of 800,000 voted for him. Definite returns from Piraeus show 13,000 in favor of Constantine and only 900 against him. Four million ballots were printed for the plebiscite.

All arrangements have been made for the return of Constantine from Switzerland. It is pointed out in this city by adherents of the former King that the allies "do not understand that the people demand Constantine, and are losing time writing notes."

How Vote Was Counted.

The ballot was not secret. Soldiers went to the voting places in platoons, carrying photos of Constantine.

One of the voting stations was in a cathedral, where groups of boys were distributed ballots on which was written the name of Constantine for the affirmative, or the voter wrote the equivalent "no" if he wished to vote negatively.

In the harbor of Piraeus, the port of Athens, important units of the French and British navies are anchored ready for any emergency, while five additional British warships are stationed not far distant.

In political circles it was said that the return of Constantine would mean the end of the Venizelists, with any solution possible. To Venizelists were forecasting that Constantine would receive a hearty complimentary vote in the plebiscite, but that he would abdicate in favor of his son, Prince George, Duke of Sparta. The Venizelist organ, Patris, has demanded Constantine's definite abdication, while other newspaper comment takes a mournful note, to the effect that the return of Constantine would mean the end of the Venizelists, with any solution possible. Enterprise is a perfect all-purpose flour

"Extra Fine Dumplings"

Delicious apple dumplings—dumplings with a delicate, crisp covering of freshly-baked pastry that is good to the very last crumb.

You know they were made with Enterprise Flour just to look at them. Carefully selected hard winter wheat, milled by a special slow process, gives Enterprise baking qualities which no ordinary flour possesses.

Naturally, Enterprise costs more. Yet it's economical. A sack will go further. And think of the better baking!

A. E. Hoffman, Butter Expert

Now makes the fancy Troco your grocer is selling

Famous for 30 years

A. E. Hoffman has been famous for 30 years as a maker and judge of finest butter and teacher of butter-making in leading dairy schools. Now he makes fancy Troco.

We built him a new factory, provided with the elaborate equipment modern food specialists require.

His word is law in every detail which concerns the perfection of Troco.

The coconut fat which replaces butter fat in the Troco churn must meet rigid tests which insure absolute freshness and purity.

He has personal knowledge of the herds which supply the Troco plant with milk. Every quart is twice pasteurized.

The secret of flavor

His skill in producing just a little the finest flavor is making Troco as famous as his butter.

As we require of Mr. Hoffman that he make Troco the de luxe brand of nut margarin, we naturally can't ask him to meet a price.

We know that after you try one print you will gladly pay a few cents more to secure the extra deliciousness of Troco.

Ingredients must meet rigid tests

garding the singing of a Venizelos song and a certain regiment has been disbanded. At some points feeling is running so high that the Venizelists are refusing to eat olives, which are the Constantinian emblem.

The French and British Ministers have asked their Governments for instructions and are busy packing up. Frightened adherents of former Premier Venizelos, who fear ill treatment at the hands of royalists, are flocking to the foreign legations.

The newspaper Patria appeared yesterday with large headlines, "Down With Tyranny; Long Live Freedom," and "Constantine Is Coming, but Smyrna Is Going."

No Money From Allies. Great Britain will extend no further financial aid to Greece if former King Constantine returns to the throne, according to a note presented to the Greek Government today by Earl Grey, British Minister in this city. The French Minister also presented a note to the Government, demanding the payment of outstanding loans.

Both the notes forbid the issuance by the national bank of paper money already printed against a loan of 400,000,000 drachmas, which was arranged during the regime of former Premier Venizelos.

"We can only do what the people want," said Premier George Rallis, in speaking of the two communications. "The Regent has received no word from Constantine. I will reply in a few days to the British and French notes."

Constantine May Again Abdicate if Allies Are in Earnest. LUCERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 6.—Former King Constantine of Greece and his household admit that if the allies are in earnest, it is possible Constantine, after returning to Athens, many find that the country's best interests demand his abdication.

Foreign Minister Streit, Constantine's chief adviser, said yesterday he believed such a contingency "improbable."

Constantine and his family attended the usual Orthodox Greek service in the Hotel Chapel yesterday morning.

M. Streit refused to express an opinion but the general feeling among the Greeks here is: "Do the allies want the Greek Army to remain in Asia Minor or are they able to send the necessary force there to replace Greeks who would have to be recalled if financial support is withdrawn?"

Constantine's followers say they regard the allied note and threat of withdrawal of financial aid, as well as talk of revision of the Sevres treaty, as merely pre-election campaign thunder designed to affect the plebiscite.

Blue Laws Would Bar Paid Choirs at Churches.

By the Associated Press. BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 6.—Opponents of the efforts of religious and reform organizations which are seeking a stricter observance of the laws respecting Sunday amusements were encouraged by the excerpts from a ruling on the subject today by State Attorney-General Armstrong.

"The complexity of our modern life," says the Attorney-General, "has presented new living conditions, whose requirements have led to a more liberal construction and application of these restrictive measures (the so-called blue laws)."

"If they were given a literal application it would be illegal for churches to maintain paid choirs. The church member who is driven to service by his paid chauffeur would be a violator of the law."

The opinion was transmitted to Police Commissioner Gathier of Baltimore who had asked for a ruling as to whether public entertainments on Sunday at which collections are taken up are legal. Armstrong holds in substance that Sunday entertainments and gatherings, promoted for the intellectual, moral and cultural improvement of the community, not for the financial benefit of persons or corporations; and which do not interfere with religious worship, are not unlawful and may not be interfered with.

MOONSHINERS FIGHT AGENTS

Nine Stills Seized, Four Men Held in Kentucky Raid.

By the Associated Press.
LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 6.—Nine fully equipped stills of from 50 to 100 gallons' capacity, 6500 gallons of still beer and 100 gallons of moonshine whisky were taken by Federal agents in a raid in the "South American" district in Whitley County Saturday after a fight between 30 alleged moonshiners and 14 prohibition agents and United States Marshals. At least one of the alleged moonshiners is believed to have been killed or seriously wounded.

Four of the men captured are held in Pineville. They are Henderson Gibson, Byrd Powers, F. F. Hamblin and John Gibson. Other men were released because there were not enough agents to guard them, according to United States Commissioner J. W. Rollins.

VERDICT OF ACCIDENT
IN MARTEN'S DEATH

Juvenile Court Officer Was Shot When Instructing Boys in Use of Rifle

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned today in the case of August Marten, 35 years old, of 4165 Wall street, a Juvenile Court probation officer, who died at the city hospital Saturday night of an injury suffered when he was accidentally shot at the Grace Holy Cross School, 2601 North Eleventh street, last Monday night by Albert Sappington, 12 years old, of 2416 North Thirteenth street.

In an effort to save Marten's life last Wednesday his wife gave a pint of her blood for transfusion into his veins. This resulted in only a temporary improvement in his condition.

Marten was instructing a number of boys at the school in the use of the rifle. He had rigged up a target and was turning away from it when the Sappington boy's rifle was accidentally discharged. The bullet entered Marten's abdomen.

Marten was taken to the City Hospital Monday night and an operation was performed. This resulted in great loss of blood, weakening his vitality to such an extent that blood transfusion was found necessary.

After investigating the shooting the police exonerated young Sappington of all blame.

MINTS MAKE COINAGE RECORD

Total of 809,500,000 for Year Included 512,500,000 Pennies.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The mints established a record in coinage during the last fiscal year, ac-ording to the annual report of Director Baker made public tonight. A total of 809,500,000 coins were executed, which Baker declares is world's record. The figures show an increase of 446 per cent in coinage over 1915, the last normal year. Public demand for smaller coins, particularly pennies, is reflected in the report, which disclosed that more than 512,500,000 coins in the record output were one-cent pieces.

Motor

Costs

THE farmer of the Middle West is a business man who utilizes every labor or time-saving device to increase his profits. That's why the farmer is coming to be the heaviest buyer of motor trucks.

At seeding time he hauls his seed to the field, thus economizing hand labor; at harvest time he hauls his grain, potatoes, and other produce, to market, and distance being a less prohibitive factor, is able to secure better prices; and all through the year he hauls his live-stock and chickens to market, and is able to deliver them in better condition, and with a minimum of shrinkage.

These are a few reasons why the farmer finds the motor truck profitable.

It must be apparent, then, that in no other part of the nation is rural distribution of petroleum products quite so important as in the states served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). These are the farming states which supply not only the Middle West but the entire nation with food. The ten states served by this Company are well termed the bread-basket of the nation.

To be of economic service to the farmer, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) maintains throughout the territory it serves a complete chain of bulk stations, with tank wagons for delivery throughout the rural districts. The farmer has come to know that he can depend upon this service even under most trying conditions. That busy, dark green tank wagon serves the farmer with all the faithfulness with which the milk wagon and the ice wagon serve the flat dweller in the city.

The comprehensive distribution system of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is geared to service at the lowest possible cost. The money thus saved through large scale operation is passed on to the consumer by reasonable tank wagon prices throughout the territory served.

That this complete and highly efficient system of distribution maintained by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is indispensable to the new type of business farmer, no one acquainted with the facts can doubt.

Soccer Champions Come to Life and Defeat Scullins

Rearranged Ben Miller Eleven Shuts Out League Leaders, Score 3 to 0.

INNISFAILS NOW LAST

Only Two Points, However, Separate First and Last-Place Clubs.

The Ben Millers, last season's champions of the United States Football Association and St. Louis League, after failing to win one of six games, came to life yesterday and handed the leading Scullins a 3-0 drubbing in the first clash of yesterday's double bill at Cardinal Field. In the other battle the Screw Co. and Innisfails battled to a 2-2 draw.

As a result of yesterday's games only two points separate the four elevenes. The Scullins have 11, with the Screw Co. and Innisfails tied for second with 10. The Innisfalls, in last place, own nine.

In bringing his eleven out of its slump yesterday, Manager Ratican of the Millers made several changes in his lineup. McGarry was benched and Reddy played goal, while Bube Pote was again in the forward line after a week's layoff. Archdeacon also was in the front line.

The Millers scored the first goal of the game 10 minutes after the starting whistle, when Dunn, after taking a cross from Archdeacon put the ball into the net out of Oellerman's reach. The Screw Co. battled hard, but the great defense of the Millers kept them from tallying.

In the closing period the champions took the ball down the field, shortly after the Innisfalls, who put through his second goal. Pote scored the final marker, after taking a pass from McHenry. McHenry played one of the best wing games seen here this season.

McHenry plays fine game. Jimmy McHenry, the veteran center forward of the Innisfalls, who yesterday played one of the best games of his career, put his team in front in the clash with the Screw Co. when he took the ball near his goal, dribbled down the field and scored without once losing possession of the sphere.

The Innisfalls' lead was short-lived, as Bechtold took the ball from Pote shortly before the close of the first period.

The two teams went at it hammer and tones in the second half, and then the other scorers, McHenry scored for the Innisfalls near the start of the period and Bechtold scored for the Millers. Besides McHenry, Vaughn and Mitchell starred for the Irishmen, while Burke, Fink, Mulligan and Bechtold were the outstanding lights for McHenry.

1921 PRINCETON-NAVY GAME SET FOR OCT. 15

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 6.—Princeton and the Annapolis midshipmen will clash on the gridiron at Farragut Field at the Navy base tomorrow, Oct. 15, 1921. Announcement to this effect was made last night by Commander Douglas L. Howard, director of athletics at the academy.

The two institutions entered into a two-year agreement last year for alternate matches and during the late season the midshipmen went to Junglertown and were defeated 14 to 0. The game next year's game was all that remained to be settled.

Now that University of Pennsylvania will not come to Annapolis for a game, the midshipmen management has opened negotiations with Pennsylvania State and there is strong likelihood of a game being arranged. The plan is to play on neutral grounds. North Carolina State is definitely fixed on the navy schedule for Oct. 1 and negotiations with University of Virginia, Bucknell and other institutions are pending.

BIG THREE WILL NOT ENTER HOCKEY LEAGUE

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Harvard, Princeton and Yale have decided not to join the Intercollegiate Hockey League. It was announced at a league meeting here yesterday. A four-team association will be composed of Pennsylvania, Dartmouth, Cornell and Fordham, the New York institution applying for membership yesterday.

FALLER WINS 10-MILE CHAMPIONSHIP EVENT

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Fred Faller, Dorchester Club, Boston, holder of the senior cross-country title, won the Amateur Athletic Union national championship 10-mile run here yesterday in 55m. 20s. Frank Zona of New York was second. William Rittola of New York, National Junior cross-country champion, was disqualified for leaving the track after running six and a half miles.

Lawler-Shannon Feud to Reach Acute Stage at Armory Tonight

Issue as Between Rushing Fighter and a Clever Boxer Will Be Tested in Eight-Round Bout for Third Time—Shannon Had Point Margin in His Favor Nov. 8.

By John E. Wray.

A LITTLE unfinished business, held over from their previous meeting here Nov. 8, will be cleaned up tonight at the Armory, when Jack Lawler of Omaha and Eddie Shannon of Portland, Ore., mingle mitts in an eight-round encounter.

Their last conference ended in nothing definite save the conclusion that Lawler was a very aggressive chap and that his opponent was a master of the counter as well as a bear-cat defensively.

The questions remaining to be decided tonight are whether Shannon can show as good an attack as he has a defense; and whether Jack Lawler has a punch. Their previous encounter left a negative impression in regard to both queries.

Lawler is well enough known to local fight goers to need little further introduction. Since he first brought his projectile style of rushing the enemy, very much in a kid Regan when this boy was in his prime, Lawler has made a hit with such sportsmen as think a boxer and a charging bull are blood relatives. He is full of vitality and aggressive, but so far as has been observed here he has not been able to get home with it against any kind of capable fighter. He flattened a poor old hulk in Chris Burkhardt of New Orleans; but no good fighter has had to quail before his rushing. He is rather easy to hit when not in a "shell," as a fine specimen of cauliflower ear on the left side of his head attests; but he is a game, rugged fellow, is always forcing the fight, and would be a star in a long battle.

Shannon, although he has been fighting a long time and has more than 400 fights in his record, is still boxing in his best form and for a limited round contest, is undoubtedly the class at his weight. When Mason is in the mood to show all his stock in trade, against a man of his own tonnage or none in it, a pleasure to watch his craft, generalship and accurate hitting.

Shannon will doubtless be compelled to take the defensive tonight, as in their two previous encounters, and there is reason to believe that he will hold his own just as successfully. The boxer who carries the fight to Shannon makes the going exactly to suit him. No matter how strong, either man falls short of the ideal, tonight's bout is certain to contain action and to prove interesting. If a knockout develops it will be a surprise.

A Bout for Frankie Mason. If the Coliseum officials are at a loss for an opponent to pit against the American flyweight champion, Cole is the local colossus, possibly either man falls short of the ideal, tonight's bout is certain to contain action and to prove interesting. If a knockout develops it will be a surprise.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Dempsey Rivals John L. Record.

THE day when a fighter can win the public confidence and popularity accorded the once famous John L. Sullivan has probably passed. Ring-siders are not the hero-worshippers they once were, and the attraction that lures the thousands of spectators at fabulous prices of today is not the magnetism or personality of the ring luminary, but the spectacle of the fight itself and the growing popularity of the sport.

Were the date set back 25 years, or in John L.'s own day, Jack Dempsey, the present wearer of the world's crown, might start a drive to displace John L. as the "most popular fighter of all time."

Dempsey's chief bid for recognition and popularity is being made right now and its most important feature consists in a willingness to face any and all opponents as fast as they can be produced. At this moment Dempsey has the following engagements:

Dec. 14.—Meets Kayo Bill Brennan at New York.
March 17.—Fights Jess Willard, also at New York.

July 4 (tentative date)—Boxes Georges Carpentier, place undecided.

These three fights alone are more than Willard fought during the entire four years of his title reign. More than that Fitzsimmons fought in the two years during which he held the crown, and equal in number the bouts in which James J. Corbett figured from the time he beat Sullivan in 1892 to his downfall five years later.

Come One, Come All. In fact, no champion in history went into the discard, with the sole exception of John L. Sullivan, has displayed half the willingness to fight or risk his honors as our Mr. Dempsey is showing at the present time. Dempsey has bars nobody and his decisions show that his defiance is not mere wind but is an honest manifestation of his intention to take on all comers.

John L. was the busy boy. From the time he defeated Paddy Ryan of the public, who spent considerable time of his fights were Jack Johnson and Jess Willard. The latter, in the four years that he occupied the limelight, fought just twice, one a 10-round, no-decision affair against Frank Moran, and the other his knockout by Dempsey.

Johnson fought 13 bouts in seven years, before Willard and old age finally downed him. Of these 13 fights nine were virtually "set-ups" against unknown or fifth-rate opponents, while his title reign against Fitzsimmons.

Washington Seeks Game With Centre Eleven Next Year

Annual Game With Missouri Hinges on Success in Landing Kentucky School Nov. 12.

Unless a football game is scheduled with Northwestern, Notre Dame, Centre College or some other strong eleven for Nov. 12, 1921, Washington University will not meet the Missouri U. Tigers next season. It would be the first time since 1903 that the two institutions have failed to meet on the gridiron.

George L. Rider, director of athletics, and Dr. W. L. McCourt arrived from the Missouri Valley Conference winter meeting in Kansas City, yesterday morning, and announced that no agreement had been reached with the State school authorities.

Missouri offered Nov. 5 with a game in St. Louis; but Rider refused this, stating that the two teams had always met the second week in November and Washington did not desire to change the precedent. A week ago, Missouri wrote for Nov. 12 at Columbia and this request was practically granted.

However, since that time Tiger officials communicated with Oklahoma and it was decided to bring the Valley champions to Columbia on that date rather than the Pike-way team.

Rider objects to the earlier date as it would bring the climax of the season too early. If it is possible to get some strong team for the following week, Missouri's request will be granted, on the provision that the old schedule is returned to the following year. Tiger officials did not seem desirous to guarantee a return to the old schedule plan.

Early Practice Taboo. Although no formal action was taken, it is hardly likely that the University of Missouri will start a practice on Sept. 1 as was the case last season. The Valley officials discussed and urged observance of a rule that practice should not start before Sept. 15.

Coach Rider brought back a basketball schedule of 16 games, which is less than the limit allowed by the N. C. A. A. It provides for two open weeks which may be filled with games at home. The schedule will take the players on the road on three trips and keep them on the campus eight and one-half days.

The season will open at Columbia with the Tigers as Drake on Jan. 14 and 15. The schedule thereafter follows: Jan. 21-22, Drake at St. Louis; Jan. 28-29, Ames at St. Louis; Feb. 9-10, Missouri at St. Louis; Feb. 11-12, Kansas at St. Louis; March 2-3, Oklahoma at Norman; March 2-3, Drake at Des Moines; March 4-5, Grinnell at Grinnell.

The local games with every Missouri Valley Conference team except Nebraska and Kansas Aggies. However, it means that only three of the quietest will show at Frank Gymnasium.

The three-game series with St. Louis U. and sets with Concordia and Rolla, will also probably be arranged.

EVANS WANTS TWO SPORT RULE IN BIG-10 REPEALED

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—David M. Evans, Director of Athletics at Northwestern University, announced today that he will endeavor to have the "two sport" rule, which forbids any athlete from participating in more than two forms of college sports during a year, repealed at the next meeting of the Athletic Board of Control.

The rule was passed by the faculty board of the university in 1914, and has since been a source of contention with students. Students express agitation over the rule, saying many of the best athletes of the university will be prevented from appearing on one or more teams.

Director Evans declares the rule will prevent many athletes from entering the university.

15 BICYCLE TEAMS TIED AT END OF EIGHTH HOUR

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—At the end of eight hours' steady grind all 15 teams competing in the major baseball leagues in favor of the Baltimore Federal League club, which claimed a violation of the anti-trust laws by the use of the "reserve clause" in the players' contract.

The Appellate Court held that playing baseball did not constitute interstate commerce as defined by United States Supreme Court decisions and that the anti-trust law did not apply. The reserve clause imposed restrictions, the court held, which related directly to the conservation of the personnel of the clubs and did not affect the movements of the Federal League clubs. Any ill effect was merely accidental, the court found, and was not illegal.

ERIES DEFEAT FEDERALS IN A. F. A. CUP CONTEST

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The soccer team of the Erie Athletic Association defeated the Federal Shipyard's eleven by a score of 4 to 2 in the third round of the annual A. F. A. cup ties at Harrison, N. J., yesterday.

The Federal forwards gave a great exhibition of the passing. Erie half-back did not cancel his fight, but played on a perfectly dry ground would have done even better. They were the first to score, and at half-time the tally was even at 1-1.

After half an hour's play M. Jameson of the Reds found the Erie's goal, but nearly on the stroke of half-time Knowles evaded a shot. Early in the second half McCrum passed back a slow one to his goal keeper, but Hamlin of the Eries beat Forfar to the ball and scored. Briefly then brought the Reds level.

The best goal of the game came from Forfar's toe, the shot going in from 20 yards out. Knowles clinched the victory soon after. The Erie half-back and Forfar, in goal for the Reds, came in for most of the applause.

Decatur Staleys Win. CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—The Decatur Staleys defeated the Chicago Cardinals, 10 to 0, yesterday, in a professional football game. The victory gave the Staleys two of the three games the two teams have played.

WHAT AILS ELI?

The Eli Weekly says that what Yale football needs is a family doctor—News Item.

SEND in a call for Dr. Squilla To diagnose our football ills; Though seemingly he's well and strong.

And has a dandy appetite. At table steaks he is a bear.

When for the game he starts to train. He's strong enough to fell an ox.

And stands six feet without his socks. He has a chest of boiler plate—His heart and lungs are simply great.

Outside of that, we fear, by heck! Poor Eli is a total wreck.

He has a strong and steady pulse But still he doesn't get results.

His hep to all the football rules What's the matter with his scholastic?

When Boston College took his law With glad acclaim and much eclat.

His system got an awful shock And hence it's time to call the doc.

So send a call for Doctor Squilla To diagnose our football ills.

ROUGH STUFF. Wladek Zbysko has gone into the dry docks for repairs as a result of his recent encounter with Strangler Lewis. His head is swollen and his eyesight somewhat impaired, indicating that the gentle art of wrestling isn't losing its grip to any great extent.

The New York Civic League wants the law permitting Sunday baseball repealed. As the alphabet only runs to Z, don't know exactly what class the Civic League belongs in.

NO CHANCE. The Civic League advocates the prohibition of all sports and amusements conducted as a business. It is a pity that the league has no chance of success.

The Civic League, however, states it is not asking for prohibition of all sports and amusements, but for the repeal of the law which permits Sunday baseball. Which is very magnanimous and broad minded in view of the fact that there are so many people in the moving picture business for their health.

WHY NOT? THE Civic League would put the bee on Sunday sport that isn't free. We understand they don't object. To picture shows that don't collect. A stated fee or quid pro quo. To see an elevating show. That has been stamped with their O. K.

Although it is the Sabbath day. So we suggest they make a list Of things on which they must insist—The little things they like to do And have all other things taboo.

Federal League Ruling Reversed

Reserve Clause Not a Violation of Anti-Trust Law, Appeal Court Rules.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The District Court of Appeals today reversed the recent judgment for $250,000 granted by the District Supreme Court against the major baseball leagues in favor of the Baltimore Federal League club, which claimed a violation of the anti-trust laws by the use of the "reserve clause" in the players' contract.

The Appellate Court held that playing baseball did not constitute interstate commerce as defined by United States Supreme Court decisions and that the anti-trust law did not apply. The reserve clause imposed restrictions, the court held, which related directly to the conservation of the personnel of the clubs and did not affect the movements of the Federal League clubs. Any ill effect was merely accidental, the court found, and was not illegal.

Charles C. Peterson of St. Louis will referee the tournament matches.

Hoppe Seeks 1000 Average. Incidentally, it is Hoppe's ambition to run one of the best bowling tournaments out in one inning. If he succeeds it will be a feat never before accomplished in billiards in championship play.

Among the spectators who will have considerably more than a passing interest in the matches will be Edward Horrems, the Belgian who holds the championship of Europe. He came here with a championship match with Hoppe as his objective. It will be the first time Horrems has seen Willie in action.

Charles C. Peterson of St. Louis will referee the tournament matches.

Fitzsimmons Gets Match. MILWAUKEE, Dec. 6.—Eddie Fitzsimmons of New York will take Willie Jackson's place against Lew Tander of Philadelphia in the 10-round bout here on Dec. 14. Jackson was forced to cancel his fight with Tander owing to an injury to his shoulder.

Tenpin Events Today. Two sweepstakes bowling tournament will be staged on the Washington alleys today. This afternoon a women's individual tournament will be held, while tonight three squads of five-man teams will compete.

ERIES DEFEAT FEDERALS IN A. F. A. CUP CONTEST

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The soccer team of the Erie Athletic Association defeated the Federal Shipyard's eleven by a score of 4 to 2 in the third round of the annual A. F. A. cup ties at Harrison, N. J., yesterday.

The Federal forwards gave a great exhibition of the passing. Erie half-back did not cancel his fight, but played on a perfectly dry ground would have done even better. They were the first to score, and at half-time the tally was even at 1-1.

After half an hour's play M. Jameson of the Reds found the Erie's goal, but nearly on the stroke of half-time Knowles evaded a shot. Early in the second half McCrum passed back a slow one to his goal keeper, but Hamlin of the Eries beat Forfar to the ball and scored. Briefly then brought the Reds level.

The best goal of the game came from Forfar's toe, the shot going in from 20 yards out. Knowles clinched the victory soon after. The Erie half-back and Forfar, in goal for the Reds, came in for most of the applause.

Decatur Staleys Win. CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—The Decatur Staleys defeated the Chicago Cardinals, 10 to 0, yesterday, in a professional football game. The victory gave the Staleys two of the three games the two teams have played.

Youthful Rivals Again to Try for Hoppe's Cue Title

Welker Cochran and Jake Schaefer Will Open Series With Champion Today.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The final round of the second annual national championship 18.2 ballkline billiard tournament began in the ballroom of the Hotel Astor today and will continue through Wednesday, with matches being played each afternoon and evening.

Willie Hoppe will defend the title he has held for 15 years, against the onslaughts of Welker Cochran and Jake Schaefer, winner and runner-up, respectively, in the recent preliminary tournament at San Francisco.

The winner will not only be crowned with the title and presented with a diamond-studded gold medal, but he will receive $2500 in cash as well. The player who finishes second will get $1500, while the third man will be enriched to the extent of $1000. In this way the incentive to win the title has been enhanced to such an appreciable extent that Cochran and Schaefer have devoted considerably more time to conscientious practice during the last year.

As a result, their cue prowess has greatly improved—improved to such a degree, in fact, that there are many who concede them better than a fighting chance against Hoppe.

Cochran and Schaefer will meet in the opening match this afternoon, and Hoppe will meet the winner in the evening tilt. Each of the matches will be of 400 points' duration, with play in the afternoon beginning at 2:30, and in the evening at 8:15. The schedule calls for the players to meet each other twice during the round.

All three of the players have shown such excellent form in the matches this season that it is confidently expected that many of the marks which were set in the first tournament a year ago will be exceeded.

Since the last tournament recorded were made by Hoppe and Schaefer, each of whom established a record of 80. Cochran's best average during the season was 44-3, but Welker found much consolation in the fact that he made the highest run recorded during the tournament, 265. Hoppe's best was a cluster of 164, and Schaefer's was 155.

New Elimination System Used. This year instead of permitting all of the leading billiard players to compete for the championship in one tournament and thus clutter up the schedule, it was decided to stage the event in two sections, a preliminary and a final. Thus in qualifying to meet Hoppe in the titular round at the Astor, Cochran and Schaefer were called upon to cue their way through the strongest opposition it was possible to muster against them. They have to dispose of a field in which there were four players, and they tied for second place with Cochran a year ago: Koji Yamada, the Jap; David McAndrews, formerly amateur champion of the United States; and Marcus Catron, son of the famous Billy Catron of Jake Schaefer "the wizard's" time. That Cochran and Schaefer were able to win this contestively proves the strength of their games.

Hoppe, on the other hand, is playing the best billiards of his career. The averages and high runs he has made in his exhibition matches this season have shown him to be at the top of his game. While recently playing a 300-point match Hoppe ran out the game in the first inning.

Hoppe Seeks 1000 Average. Incidentally, it is Hoppe's ambition to run one of the best bowling tournaments out in one inning. If he succeeds it will be a feat never before accomplished in billiards in championship play.

Among the spectators who will have considerably more than a passing interest in the matches will be Edward Horrems, the Belgian who holds the championship of Europe. He came here with a championship match with Hoppe as his objective. It will be the first time Horrems has seen Willie in action.

Charles C. Peterson of St. Louis will referee the tournament matches.

Fitzsimmons Gets Match. MILWAUKEE, Dec. 6.—Eddie Fitzsimmons of New York will take Willie Jackson's place against Lew Tander of Philadelphia in the 10-round bout here on Dec. 14. Jackson was forced to cancel his fight with Tander owing to an injury to his shoulder.

Tenpin Events Today. Two sweepstakes bowling tournament will be staged on the Washington alleys today. This afternoon a women's individual tournament will be held, while tonight three squads of five-man teams will compete.

STOCK MARKET

GAINS IN OPENING
THEN DROPS AGAINMexican Petroleum Leads Rally, but Shows Loss of Eight Points for Day—Rails Also Weak.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"The stock market opened with a firm tone, and gains were made during the first hour of from 1 to 3 points, the industrials and stocks in which the shorts have been caught, such as Mexican Petroleum, leading. The rally, however, was heavy. The market then weakened and fell back irregularly, and by noon the early gains had been lost. After midday renewed weakness developed, and late in the afternoon the rails had lost 1 and 3 points, and the industrials more. Steel showed a net loss of a point, Baldwin won two points, and Mexican Petroleum had fallen until it showed a loss for the day of 8 points.

"Trading during most of the day was in small lots, and the aggregate amount was not large. Money ruled at 7 per cent. American Agricultural Chemical was particularly weak, losing 8 points on top of Saturday's loss of 5.

Foreign Exchange Market Quiet.

"The foreign exchange market continued its quiet tone. Sterling opened at 84, but later dropped back half a cent to Saturday's closing price. Quotations on France and Italy showed slight declines, but German marks fell 6 points to 132 cents. Norwegian currency, on the other hand, displayed much strength, selling for 14.20 cents, as compared with 13.95 on Saturday. Reports were circulated regarding improvement in Norway's trade position and, in particular, that heavy imports of butter are being received from her. Canadian exchange was again heavy, the Canadian dollar selling for 87 cents, or a half cent less than on Saturday.

"What continued its strong rally. Opening a couple of cents higher at 11.85, the March delivery sold up to 11.74, or 2 1/2 cents above the price of 10 days ago. The December delivery continues to be worth 4 or 5 cents more than that for March. Corn showed a sympathetic advance of 2 to 4 cents. Cotton also was strong, opening at 16 1/2 cents for March and advancing to over 16 3/4, the cause being the technical position of the market rather than any new light on fundamental conditions.

Decline Due to Loan Expansion.

"Last week's decline in the reserve ratio of the combined Federal Reserve System by three-tenths of a point to 44.1 per cent was due to expansion of loans and not to an increase of note circulation or a fall in reserves. Member banks borrowed from the reserve system, probably to improve their own reserve position and accumulate funds for December needs. Deposits of member banks increased by $40,000,000, which $32,000,000 in the amount of member banks increasing their borrowings at the reserve bank here, and increasing their deposits on reserve by account $34,000,000, the Clearing House statement. At the same time showing a reduction in loans of $25,000,000. The New York bank also suffered a loss in reserves of $44,000,000 on account of the gold settlement fund, the other regional banks evidently drawing on the center.

"Taking the system as a whole, reserves increased by $3,000,000 and the circulation of reserve notes decreased by $14,000,000. Inter-bank borrowing showed a further but smaller decrease to $12,000,000, due principally to repayments by the New York bank. Slight increases in inter-bank borrowing were shown by the banks at Atlanta, Kansas City and Dallas.

FORMAL CAMPAIGN TO SWELL SALE OF CHRISTMAS SEALS

Special Day Assigned for Schools and Booths Will Be Established at Washington University.

The Tuberculosis Society of St. Louis has announced the program for its annual Christmas seal sale which opened formally Wednesday, and has outlined a sale of wider scope than that of previous years. A total of 20,000,000 of the little health stickers have been assigned by the National Tuberculosis Association to this society for sale in St. Louis and St. Louis County, the money raised therefrom to be devoted to anti-tuberculosis work in the community from which it comes.

The slogan of the 1920 sale is "Seal your mail with the stamp of health," and the entire purpose of the sale is not only to raise funds for conducting the fight against disease and death in St. Louis and St. Louis County during the coming year, but to carry on at the same time a widespread educational campaign to impress the need for general co-operation of every member of the community in promoting good health here.

The sale began Wednesday in the postoffices and at the Union Station. Mrs. William Dee Becker is chairman of the continuous postoffice sales committee; Mrs. W. T. Donovan of the continuous Union Station sales committee, and Mrs. J. M. Michaels of the special movie sales committee.

Tuesday is "School Day." The public and private schools have designated tomorrow as school day for the sale of seals. Groups of matrons and girls under the leadership of Mrs. Arthur Lieber, chairman of the school day sales committee, will visit all the schools to sell seals and Santa Claus buttons, and a group of members of the College Club of St. Louis under their president, Mrs. Roscoe Anderson, will be in charge of booths in the book store and quadrangle at Washington University. The night schools and the negro schools also are in the list of those to be canvassed by the school day committee tomorrow. Mrs. Virginia Clay Haley is chairman of the committee in charge of the negro schools.

Special sales of the stickers will be conducted in the lobbies of all the downtown theaters next Saturday night, under a committee in charge of Mrs. J. M. Michaels, and on Dec. 15 Mrs. Crawford Duncan and a committee of matrons and girls will sell the seals at the Merchants' Exchange.

Health week will be observed from Dec. 13 to 20. All the pastors of the city, Protestant, Catholic and Jewish, have been asked to co-operate on Health Sunday, which is December 19, and the various civic, commercial and business organizations have been asked to co-operate in the educational work throughout the week.

Booths for Hotel Lobbies. Hotels have volunteered their assistance by placing booths in their lobbies during the week of Dec. 15 to 24. Mrs. H. A. Steinwender Jr. is chairman of this committee, and about 100 matrons and girls will act as her aids.

Dec. 24 will be "City Club day" for the seal sale, under the direction of Mrs. A. G. Wichman and 20 matrons and girls. This is the date for the City Club's annual Christmas frolic and the sale will be made a part of the program.

Continuous sales will be conducted, beginning this week, in the establishments of the public utilities and in the factories and industrial plants throughout the city and county. Mrs. Henry W. Kiel has been placed in charge of the public utilities and municipal building sales, and Mrs. Max A. Goldstein of the factory sales.

The sale of Christmas seals in St. Louis and St. Louis County is being conducted under the general auspices of the Tuberculosis Society of St. Louis.

City News in Brief

POLICE ITEMS

TWO 14-YEAR-OLD BOYS, ARRESTED yesterday when policemen learned they were selling chewing gum and candy below market price, admitted later, the police say, robbing the candy stand in the Belmont Theater, 2841 Pestalozzi street, Nov. 29, and again last Friday night, taking candy and gum valued at $140. Hair of the stock stolen was recovered in the cellar below the home of one of the boys. The rest, they said, they had sold to boy friends. They were turned over to their parents.

GEORGE ROYD, 16 YEARS OLD, OF 1047 Dover avenue, told policemen last night he had been stopped by two juvenile highwaymen near his home and while one held him the other slapped his face and took 25 cents from his pockets. The police later arrested two brothers, 13 and 17 years old, who were identified by Royd as the robbers. They denied it and were turned over to their parents.

MISCELLANEOUS

TWO REELS OF "EPISODE PICTURES" were stolen from the top of a newsboy's box at Jefferson and Olive streets yesterday evening after they had been left there for a minute by a newsboy for George W. Pine, who operates a moving picture theater at 6010 South Broadway. The man, who said he had been there while he went into a drug store nearby. They were gone upon his return. The reels were valued at $300.

AURET R. FORD, 30 YEARS OLD, OF 2014 Eichelberger avenue, who said he was foreman for a soda water bottling concern, and James Roberts, 27 years old, of 3534 California avenue, a bottle, were arrested at 6 o'clock last night when police report they found them breaking three soda water bottles in the street in front of 3712 South Jefferson avenue. They were charged with disturbance of the peace and with throwing glass in the public street, and gave bond for their appearance in police court. They did not explain their actions to the police.

COL. JAMES L. TAYLOR OF THE Bureau of Explosives of the American Railroad Association will speak on "The Safe Transportation of Explosives and Other Dangerous Articles" at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at the railroad branch of the St. Louis Y. M. C. Twenty-third and Eugene streets. All interested in the regulation for the safe transportation of explosives by freight and express are invited.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Catching a Crook.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Just to show how much freedom crooks have at present I should like you to publish my experience on my way home from work recently.

A friend and myself boarded a south-bound Grand avenue car at Washington avenue about 6 o'clock. I was assisting an elderly lady to wedge through the crowd and at the same time noticed two seemingly polite men doing the "You go first, dear Gaston" stuff to make sure I didn't get left behind. They stayed very close to me, and as I paid my fare one of them reached over and dropped his 7 cents in the box while the other one gently put his hand in my pocket and withdrew my wallet. (Luckily there wasn't much of it.) Realized I was being frisked and made this statement so it could be heard. At the same time turned around and grabbed these two polite "gentlemen" and held them like we do a dollar nowadays. Some kind person notified me my purse was on the floor. (As a crook don't like to be caught with the goods on him they had dropped it.) Requested the conductor to let me off on Olive to have the pickpockets arrested and he didn't seem to be able to hear very well, nor did any of the male members on the car offer me any assistance. In the meantime, the larger of the two broke away and got out the front end. Continued to hold on to the other one and went to the front of the car with him. He tussled a little trying to get out the front door. Got off at Laclede avenue and tried to attract the attention of several men waiting for a car, but they were also hard of hearing. It's difficult to hold a crook, watch for his pal and have him arrested all alone, but after about 10 minutes a well-built ex-sailor happened along. Did not have much trouble in getting his assistance for a man that's been in the service is not afraid to sell his hands like some of these fellows that are afraid to help their fellow men. Thanks, there are some men still left.

We then proceeded with our man to Grand and Olive and got an "officer" and had him arrested. Note this thing happened at 6 o'clock and at 6:45 had him secure in the police station.

How can we rid St. Louis of these dangerous characters when they know if they do get caught they can get away, regardless of the number of men around? However, the citizens can't always be fortunate enough to have an ex-serviceman happen along when anything of this kind happens. Therefore, the crooks are at large with such conditions existing.

The "bird" that was locked up is no beginner, as he has a very "cute" police record.

Better Lighting Needed.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Sinker Road is one of the most poorly lighted streets in the city. This road is wide and is much used by automobiles and street cars. A pedestrian hasn't much chance to cross this street in safety because the motorist cannot see him because of the darkness. Cannot something be done to light this street better? The present post would be used and double globes used, like on Washington boulevard. This would be greatly appreciated by anyone who had occasion to cross this street. Better still, the park electric lights will be put in to Sinker and it would not be much more trouble to extend them north to Delmar.

Success Due to Publicity.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
The Board of Religious Organizations wishes to express sincere thanks for the generous support given the Woman's Exposition which was held at the Coliseum, Nov. 15 to 19.

The attendance which was said to be the largest for any one week in the history of the Coliseum was largely due to widespread publicity given by the daily press.

The net proceeds to date are approximately $37,000, with returns still coming in.

A detailed statement of the enlarged civic and social program of the Board of Religious Organizations will be given the public at an early date.

The exposition, in every respect, was a marked success, even beyond our expectations, and much of the credit is due the liberal notices given by the Post-Dispatch.

BOARD OF RELIGIOUS ORGANIZATIONS
MRS. LOUIS J. BROOKS, President.

Wants Work.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Will some one explain why it is so difficult to obtain employment? Readjustment is no reason. Have walked the streets seeking employment, but to no avail. My shoes are reaching high tide, and in the course of the next 10 days I will have reached the end of my resources.

My family must be provided for. Charity I do not want; I want work.

Am healthy, strong, able-bodied man, 37, ambitious, and can handle most any task assigned.

Work and lower prices on commodities of life are essential for the welfare of all and the remedy to suppress crime. A verdict is awaited.

Can Such Things Be?
St. Glenn Young, an East St. Louis prohibition enforcement officer, indicted for the murder of Luka Vukovich in a liquor raid, is now charged with criminal assault upon the daughter of Joseph Bombardier, a miner living near Stanton, Ill.

Whether Young is guilty of the charge of assault is a question for the courts to decide. We shall not discuss it. But, wholly apart from the charge, we submit the statement of Chief of Police Anton Saffo of Stanton with regard to the raid upon the home of Joseph Bombardier.

Saffo says that he and Young went to the home of Bombardier, which is on a farm three miles from Stanton. Bombardier, whom they were seeking on suspicion of violating the Volstead act, was absent. In the home were Mrs. Bombardier, with three children—one a 16-year-old girl and two younger girls—and Mrs. Kate Telfio. They searched the house and found, he alleges, parts of a still and a pint of whisky. They arrested Mrs. Bombardier and Mrs. Telfio and took them to Stanton, where they put them in prison, leaving the three girls alone in the Bombardier home.

Subsequently, Young, with Constable William Berry and a friend, John Talbot Jr., returned to the Bombardier home in the evening and stayed all night, Young says in order to catch Bombardier when he returned. Only the young girls of the family were in the house. It was during the night, it is charged, that the crime on the 16-year-old girl was committed.

CAN SUCH THINGS BE?

Mrs. Bombardier, the mother of the girls, and her companion, Mrs. Telfio, were held in prison all night, but, no charge having been lodged against them, they were released the next day.

We have, according to this statement of Chief Saffo, the raiding of a home on suspicion that the head of the house had violated the Volstead act; the arrest of the mother of three young girls, with the only other mature person in the house; their detention in prison for a night without charge of offense, and the consequent separation of the mother from her children; the occupancy of the unguarded house for the night with the unprotected girls by the prohibition officer, a Constable and a friend. Young is quoted as saying that he took the friend as a precaution against any charge of wrongdoing—an extraordinary precaution on the part of an officer of the law, in view of the circumstances. He, himself, framed the conditions for the crime or the charge of crime.

We submit the bare, unvarnished statement of the Stanton police to the public as an example of what is done in the name of a law ostensibly designed by its sponsors and adopted by the representatives of the people to promote righteousness.

If the crime charged against Young was committed, it was only the criminal climax of a brutal and intolerable outrage, staged to fit the crime—an outrage the parallel of which we shall have to seek in the annals of darkness and despotism.

If this be law and legal process, God protect us from both.

If Americans submit to this sort of thing, they are unworthy of the name.

The Illinois authorities, the prohibition enforcement heads and the courts have a stern duty to perform.

Another North Dakota bank has closed its doors, making the eighteenth in two weeks. Say what you will about 'em, those Nonpartisan League financiers are against the open shop.

THE ODDS ARE AGAINST THE OUTLAWS.
A man who sought to share in the large rewards of banditry and rushed into a locksmith's store on Chouteau avenue with the usual command to "put 'em up," was carried out on a stretcher and conveyed to a hospital with a hole through his chest.

Two negroes who attempted to rob a bar on Biddle street met with a defiance. When a bottle was hurled at them, they fled. Two young men under arrest admit that they perpetrated 17 highway robberies and three burglaries in the last month. Assuming that there is no miscarriage of justice or unwise use of the parole, these two at least will be eliminated as factors in the problem of crime suppression for a long time to come. An attempt to dispose of jewelry stolen in the daring train robbery within the St. Louis city limits on Aug. 18 has furnished the police with a clue by which this crime mystery may be unraveled. One suspect is already under arrest. Fifty-six men whose activities and associations have brought suspicion on themselves have been taken into custody, with a minimum result of depriving the outlaw craft in general of a quantity of burglar's tools, firearms and stolen automobile licenses. Other results are promised.

The battle between the crooks and the public is by no means an entirely one-sided battle. The crooks are not having all the successes, as the size of the parties transported at occasional intervals to the penitentiary testifies. The odds are against the outlaws. Along with the daily list of robberies from the person, payroll thefts, stealings from dwellings and business places and violation of confidence by trusted employees, is a list of other successes to which it will be reassuring to devote some attention. With watchfulness, patience and determination headway can be made more rapidly against the wild outbreak of lawlessness.

SLOWING TRAFFIC AT SCHOOLHOUSES.
It is suggested that within 400 feet of schoolhouses at times when school is in session automobiles shall be limited under penalty of $500 fine to five miles an hour. Is that a practicable speed for automobiles? It is about the pace at which a man can cover five miles an hour in a brisk walk. The city ordinance makes 12 miles an hour the legal rate of speed in all places in St. Louis. It is recognized as so impractical a provision that no attempt is made to enforce it. Twenty-five miles an hour is constructively only 12 miles until it is exceeded and a case gets into court. Then the ordinance serves only as a basis in fixing a fine of as many dollars as the rate of speed greater than 25 miles exceeds 12 miles.

The school pupils should have greater protection. The maintenance of a dangerous speed in the vicinity of schoolhouses, reckless driving of any variety, should be severely punished. But ordinances whose impractical character the courts themselves are forced to recognize do not solve the traffic problem.

ELECTION CORRUPTION.

The grand jury that has been investigating practices complained of in the August primary election reports a condition of far-reaching, apparently organized, corruption. This disturbing conclusion is verified by the fact that 59 indictments have been filed, notwithstanding the inquiry is far from complete. That similar conditions exist in other precincts, which have not been investigated is a fair presumption, according to the report, which suggests that the succeeding grand jury continue the inquiry.

The grand jury does not attempt to draft a body of election laws to correct present conditions, that duty being outside of its province. It advises, however, that election laws, as nearly uniform as practicable, be enacted and put into operation throughout the State. It describes as a fruitful source of corruption the arrangement in the present system by which irresponsible committeemen compile the list from which the Election Commissioners choose the judges and clerks of election.

The Post-Dispatch has repeatedly pointed out the villainous character of that practice, which induces and promotes the crookedness which the grand jury has found in such brazen abundance. Every man who serves as an election judge or clerk knows he was certified to by a committeeman, that without such certification he could not have been appointed. He is, therefore, a protégé of the committeeman. Indeed, that is the condition precedent to his appointment. Is it any wonder, then, that a committeeman can perpetuate himself as such, or that he can determine what candidates shall receive the votes, when, through "dummy" election officers the committeeman counts the ballots?

Until the polling places are freed from the domination of committeemen whose first concern is the machine, corrupt returns are inevitable. That condition is easily remedied. The Post-Dispatch has previously proposed that the Election Commissioners should be empowered to appoint election judges and clerks of their own choosing, drawn from the ranks of citizens who have no entangling alliances with party machines, whose only purpose would be to count the ballots as cast.

Whatever revision of election laws is undertaken by the next Legislature, the election of the committeemen from control of the polling places is imperatively demanded by the grand jury's findings. That much, assuredly, may be asked of an administration whose prospective head has savagely assailed political corruption and who is obligated, by reiterated promises, to give the people of Missouri honest elections.

The Bell Telephone Co.'s statement that the service has greatly improved probably comes under the head of incredible if true.

THE CURE FOR CRIME.

Feeling, perhaps, that the frequency and boldness of burglaries and holdups required an expression, the grand jury which has devoted much of its energy in investigating election frauds, has ventured an explanation for the crime wave. It mentions soft-drink parlors, poolrooms and dance halls, where young people gather, as places where crimes are planned.

Possibly that is true, but even so, we doubt if such opinion has any explanatory or corrective value for the present epidemic of crime. We believe, too, it would be a grave mistake, in our apparent helplessness just now to cope successfully with the criminal element, to rush into a program of hysterical repression.

It is imperative that young people have places where they can meet. That such places should be properly conducted goes without saying. If here and there a rendezvous for criminals is maintained under the guise of an amusement or recreation place, it should, of course, be suppressed. That is a police duty. If the police are negligent in this respect the grand jury very properly should criticize such negligence and recommend vigilance.

But a blanket indictment of necessary social institutions for so many young people cannot, in our opinion, be productive of good. The grand jury does not imply—and does not believe—that crime would suddenly be stopped if every one of the suspect places were immediately closed. We doubt if crime would be diminished a particle by such procedure. The decently conducted soft-drink parlor, poolroom or dance hall is not an essential of the burglar or footpad's profession, though the gentry may patronize such places in their hours of leisure and pretended respectability.

The grand jury has done excellent work and submitted a valuable report, but its commentary on crime is superficial. The cure for the criminality from which this city, and the whole country, is suffering lies in the enforcement of the laws which trickery and technicality have made toothless.

It was a fatal day for Poet d'Annunzio when he became an aviator. He has never got back to earth since.

HAIL, HAIL, THE GANG'S ALL HERE!

SCENE: The cemetery at Stratford-on-Avon. The Shakespearean Spooks are assembled. Shakespeare—Well, Orlando, call the roll. Is everybody here?

Orlando—I see Mac, King Lear, Ham, Shylock, Julius and Romeo.

Shakespeare—Where's Antony?

Orlando—Cleo, his wife, says he's been out of his grave six times already; and that's enough for one week.

Shakespeare—I don't see Timon of Athens.

Orlando—No, he couldn't get away from his bootblackening parlor.

Shakespeare—Where's Pericles?

Orlando—Serenading Ophelia with his Cymbeline, and the Two Gentlemen of Verona are out searching for Love's Labors Lost.

Othello—Come on, boss man. I craves action! Let's play some African billiards.

Shakespeare—Why, Oth! I'm surprised at you! You must remember you're in the company of gentlemen ghosts.

Othello—Gentlemen, nothin'! To me this looks like a choice aggregation of cutthroats. There's Ham, the skinny Dane, who assassinated everybody within a ten-mile radius, and Mac who went around putting poison in people's soup. I'll bet Satan's got their pictures in his rogues' gallery. I'll admit I did my share chokin' my wife, but that's no offense in these times.

Shakespeare—Oth, you'll have to stop insulting this bunch or I'll get Shylock to persuade you with his butcher knife.

Macbeth—Sal, Bill, do you know you made a big mistake in not making a bedroom comedy out of my play? That sleep-walking scene would have gone over big. You could have out-Wooded Al Woods.

King Lear—One minute, boys! In keeping with the spirit of the times, I wish to renounce my throne and abdicate!

Everybody—Bravo! Bravo!

Lear—So I'll offer my crown for sale.

Shylock—H'm—h'm. Well, I'll say sixteen ducats and three shakels.

Lear—Sold! Say, Ham, pass the near-beer this way! Have you got a lease on it?

Hamlet—Aw, can't you let a feller drown his sorrows?

Romeo—Say, Ham, are you sure you haven't poisoned the drink by mistake? I sincerely hope you're not absent-minded. * * * Great Scott, but you look funny in tights! You ought to put on some flesh.

Hamlet—Oh, is zat so? Well, you're no handsome spectacle yourself with that old crow feather in your hat and a second-hand ukulele slung over your shoulder. You look like a starving poet.

Shakespeare—Boys—boys! Romeo—Well, you've got to hand it to me. I guess I lead the way in love-making.

Othello—Not any more, Romeo. In these times they don't want that sentimental stuff where you borrow a ladder from the fire department and jump up on the sixteenth rung and start howling in front of a big yellow paper-mache moon. What they want now is cave-man stuff. Look at me! I'm it. How did you like the rough way I treated Desdemona? The women would sure fall for me now.

Romeo—You're a barbarian, I'd say. What do you think of the question, Bill? Which is the best way to make love?

Shakespeare—Well, boys, that's a hard question to answer. What I haven't time to decide it tonight because there's only five minutes till sunrise. Look! By all that is great and glorious, what's this coming?

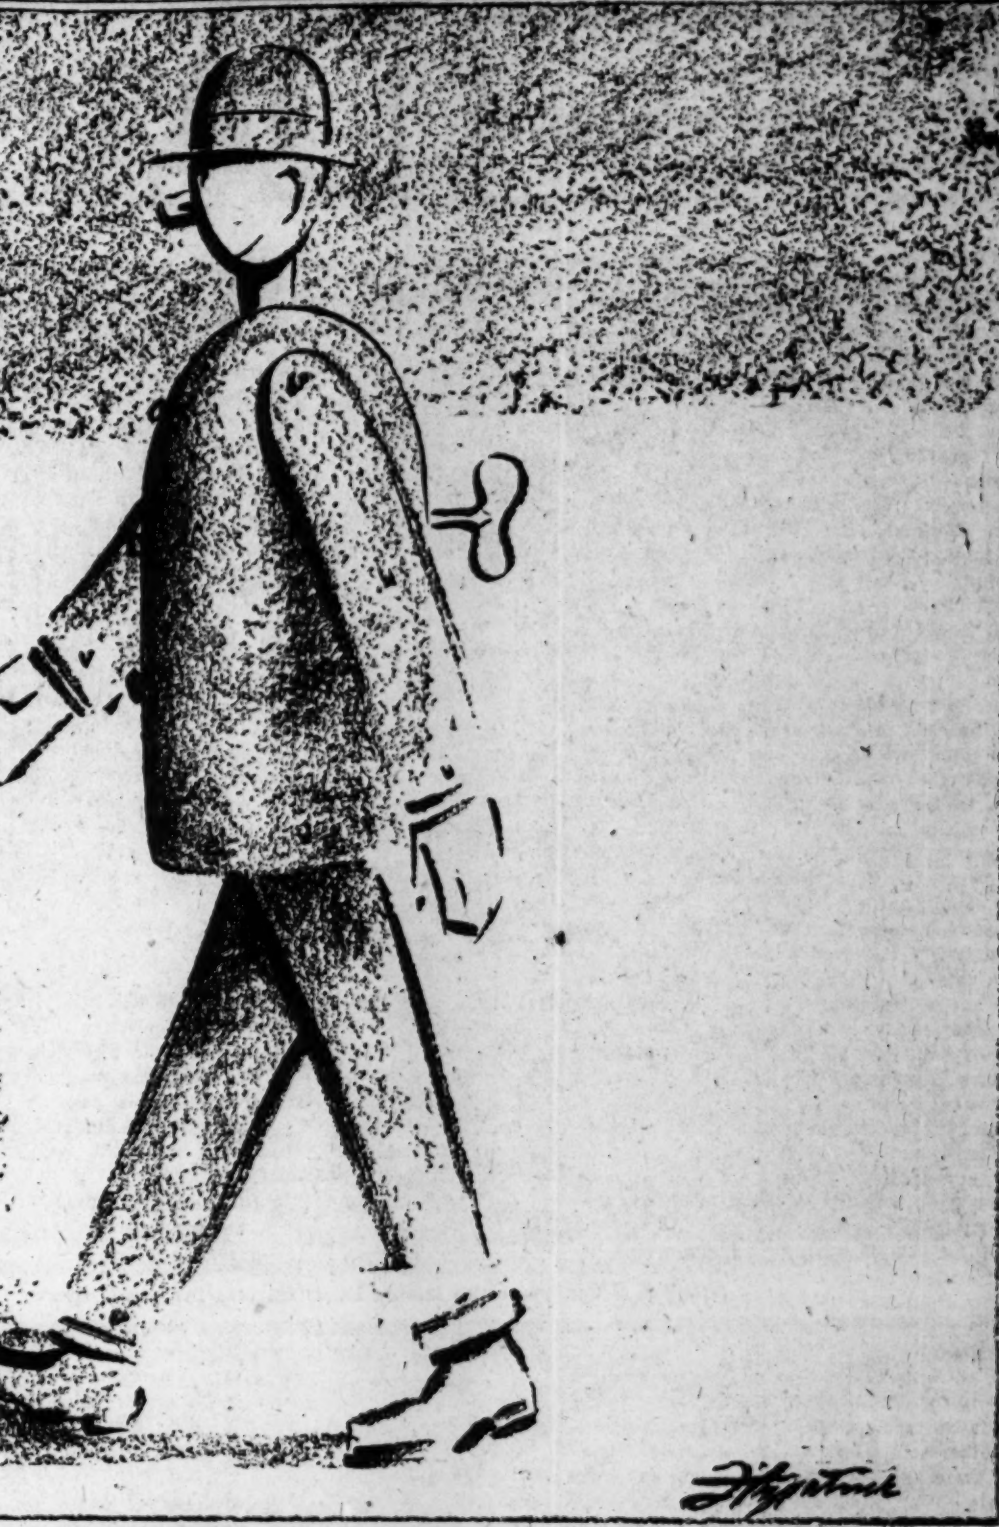

Enter a ghost.

Everybody—Who are you?

Ghost—I'm the ghost of Banquo's ghost! That's a dirty trick not inviting me to the party. I guess I'm as good as any of you spooks.

Romeo—Past—past! Say something, Bill!

Shakespeare—Why—uh—the fact is—uh—we had so much spirits around in the shape of near-beer that we—uh—

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

VENIZELLOS AND GREECE.

From the Nation.

VENIZELLOS' amazing defeat in the Greek elections—amazing because of his complete control of the political machinery, the strict censorship he maintained, and the persecution of his opponents as seditious traitors—closes a stirring chapter in Greek history. It is too early to give adequate judgment on Venizelos; a fervid Greek patriot, imperialist, expansionist, dictatorial, often identifying his country with himself and his own ideas, he has achieved an enormous extension of Greek frontiers at the expense of wars abroad and civil strife at home. Many observers called him the ablest statesman at the Paris Peace Conference.

He alone among the spokesmen of the Lesser Powers was feared by France and England. If his defeat does indeed mean the return of King Constantine—we hope not—it is a terrific blow to both French and British prestige in the East, for it was Senator Jonnart of France who, with the aid of French marines, engineered the final coup which deposed Constantine and set up Venizelos as virtual dictator of Greece in 1917, while England profited by his campaigns in Asiatic Turkey.

If it means abandonment of the footless war in Asia Minor and consolidation of the truly Greek territories which have been returned to their motherland, if it leads to a policy of reconciliation with Greece's northern neighbors, Bulgaria and Albania, the election day will be a red letter day in Balkan and Near Eastern history.

THE EXCESS-PROFITS TAX.
BERNHARD KNOLLBERG in Atlantic Monthly.

A TAXING policy which is not fair is not sound; but the excess-profits tax is an unsound method of permanent taxation, aside from the inequality which it creates. The excess-profits tax is exceedingly complicated. The preparation of a return which will satisfy the Government's requirements and protect the corporation's interests requires the services of expert accountants and an attorney. Former Commissioner of Internal Revenue Daniel J. Roper has established the immediate cost of the preparation of the returns last year at not less than $100,000,000. The value of the time and thought devoted by corporation officers to tax matters, that should instead be applied to problems affecting production and sales, is very great. The Government machinery for administering the income tax is choked by the mass of audits and contests incident to the excess-profits tax. Furthermore, the excess-profits tax ignores the mass of income below a fixed percentage on the investment, and depends for its harvest upon cutting deeply into profits when they emerge from the established safety zone. A decrease in earnings will, of course, unfavorably affect any tax based upon income, but a general curtailment of corporation income would reduce revenue from the excess-profits tax to a tithe of the present yield. Next year, unless all signs fail, there will be a very material reduction in corporation incomes. Failure to act in the forthcoming session of Congress, not only will result in the continuance of an unjust and needlessly burdensome tax, but may disrupt our national finances.

THE RUSSO-POLISH PEACE.
From the Nation.

POLAND, to be sure, is complacently in possession of her leagues of alien territory, but even the childish imagination of the Polish patriot class can hardly lead it to think that she can keep them. Russia is wholly victorious on the field; her diplomatic defeat at Riga was turned to immediate account. Poland remains to be reckoned with, but the blow to France involved in the defeat of Wrangel means that Poland can no longer count on a bloc of anti-Bolshevik states marshaled under French prestige to support its impossible ambitions. The delegates of the Soviet Government at Riga ought to use their recent victory to force a bloodless revision of the terms of that "Punic peace" with Poland which hands over millions of Russian peasants to a handful of Polish landlords, and attempts, as the London Nation has pointed out, to "rebuild the eighteenth century on the ruins of the nineteenth."

The SON OF HIS MOTHER

SECOND INSTALLMENT.

SEVERAL blocks down there was a garage. Among the mechanics was a man who in his youth, according to repute, had been a prize fighter. He and Jogger were fast friends—had been for several years.

"Swipes," he said, "when I go to college I want to play football."

The mechanic smiled.

"Sure you do. And will, if you take after the old man. He was some football player, kid."

"Yes, he was. But look at how big he was. I ain't going to be so big as that."

"Who told you you wasn't?"

"Oh, I heard father and mother talking. It was after I was hurt and they thought I was in bed. And I was hurt and felt bum. But I knew they were talking about me; so I sneaked out of bed to the head of the stairs, and father said I wasn't going to take after him, he didn't think; that I was more like mother. He said he wasn't going to let me play if I didn't get big when I went to college."

"So he said that, did he, kid? Well, he ought to a known better than to say that."

"Why should he?"

"Because—Swipes McAvoy paused, his eyes glistened. 'I'll tell you why, Jogger. It's because in this fight game, football, or rough and tumble—any old sort of a fight game—it ain't the big guy that always wins the money. Not by a da—not by a good deal. A bloke may be as big as a house and yet not have the stuff inside of him. I've seen lots of 'em. I've seen little men make 'em jump out of the ring—lots of times.'"

"You have, eh?"

"Why, sure I have. Of course, a good big man will lick a good little man any day. But you take a little guy who's got the real fightin' stuff in him and he gets my money against every big man he tackles that hasn't. It's all in the mind, kid; all in the mind. If you won't be beat you can't be beat. Mike Murphy said that and he said an awful, son."

"Well, not only that. Yes, sure, never give up. But give to the other guy, too. Now, kid, you got hurt tryin' to tackle a bigger guy at your school. Your mother told me. She knows I helped Mike Murphy train two Yale eleven, so me and her's great pals. Why, she'll set in her car here while I'm fixin' something on it and talk football the whole time. She's a woman, that mother of yours. Well, anyhow, I'm going to tell you what I told her about that tackle where you got hurt."

"All right, Swipes."

"You see that guy comin' for you with the ball, and you says, 'Hully gee, this is a big bloke, and when we meet there's going to be trouble for yours truly.' Didn't you think somethin' like that, kid?"

"Well, something, I guess."

"Sure, you did. You got mellow inside, instead of sayin', 'Here comes this stiff; I'll show him up good.' What you shoulda done, kid, was to have started for him faster than he was comin' for you. Fur instance, if a punkin comin' through the air was to meet a little, hard, green apple comin' faster than the punkin was, that little apple would bore a hole clean through the punkin. Catch it? Think it over."

"All right, Swipes, I will. But—" Jogger was a manly little chap, with a lot of persistence.

"What I want you to do is to tell me how I can get big."

"Sure," The man looked at the boy. "You go back there in the tool room and peel off your clothes and let me have a look at you."

A few minutes later the ex-puglist was studying him with professional eye.

"Well, Jogger," he said at length, "one can't never tell about a boy, but it looks to me as if you was always going to be kinda stringy. That's the way I size you up, at least."

"Yes?" Jogger's face fell.

"But—Swipes' powerful fingers were busy prodding and pinching the lad—"beef ain't everything. Double up your arm and let's see your biceps. Gee, that's a little lump, for certain Jogger, kid, you're all muscle, all bone and muscle. Your dad's got you all wrong."

"You think so?"

"Sure, I think so. You take care of yourself and you'll be like a whip. Drink any milk?"

"Lots of it."

"Well, keep on and eat potatoes and bread and butter, all you can stuff. That'll help some—and don't you ever make a movement in a game when you don't put everythin' you've got into it. You weigh 90 pounds. Well, you put all that 90 pounds into a punch or a tackle, and it's be worth more than the heavyweight who only puts 40 pounds or less into what he does. Catch it?"

As Jogger nodded the man went on.

"Now there was once a guy named Frank Hinkley, who played football at Yale. He"—

"Oh, father's told me all about Frank Hinkley—and mother, too."

"Well, they never told you what I'm thinkin' of. So you just go home to mamma and you say: 'Ma, I was talkin' to Swipes McAvoy and he told me to get you to tell that story about Frank Hinkley. She'll know—and mebbe she'll tell—if your pa'll let her.'"

So that night at dinner Jogger turned to his mother and repeated his conversation with the garage man.

"I think, Jared"—Sally Haight's eyes were filled with light—"that you had better tell him."

Haight laughed contagiously.

"No, you. I haven't a bit of false pride about that."

"Well, one day when your father was at Princeton there came to Yale a thin, pale boy with blue eyes and sandy hair. He weighed, I think, about 138 pounds. I suppose, really, son, that he looked about as much like a varsity football player as you would if you—well not quite so bad as that. Anyway, he looked weak and sick and everything. So in the first Princeton game in which he played a Yale man fumbled a punt and your father, who happened to be out to one side, picked it up. He started for the Yale goal. And there was a clear field, except for one man—that pale, sickly looking young novice, Hinkley. Father weighed nearly 200 pounds, and when he ran he was like a runaway locomotive. He didn't think any more of that pale young chap standing in his path than he would have thought of a fly. So he didn't even try to dodge—"

"He went straight at him?"

"Yes, straight, thinking that if the player didn't jump to one side he would be knocked there. Well"—Sally smiled at her husband. "You tell the rest, dear."

"There isn't much to tell," laughed her husband. "When I came to, Jogger, I saw the captain and two or three others bending over me. And I looked at them and I said, still a bit out of my senses—I said: 'How many were killed in the train wreck? Or am I the only one?'"

"Gee! And Hinkley weighed 139 pounds and you weighed nearly 200!"

Yes. But, look here, son." Jared Haight leaned forward, shaking a solemn finger—"remember, there has been only one Frank Hinkley since football started, down to the present day."

Sally Haight's eye were sparkling.

"Which doesn't mean, Jared, darling, that there may not be another some day."

Jared stared at her and then shook his head, solemnly.

A week later Jogger Haight limped home from school with a swollen eye, rapidly turning a convincing blue-black.

"You've been fighting?"

"Well—not fighting—that is, I was playing football. And I tackled Tommy Treadwell again."

"I see. Well, I think, Jogger"—there was a catch in Sally's voice—"that hereafter, when you see Tommy Treadwell coming your way you'd—well, I think"—She paused.

"Oh, Tommy won't come my way again this season, mother. He was so long coming to that I got scared. But the coach brought him ar'—"

"Jogger, look at me." The eyes of mother and son met. Both pairs were that cold, gray that verges upon blue. Neither said anything.

Each afternoon Jogger went down to the garage and took a boxing lesson from Swipes. He said nothing to his father and mother about this, paying for the lessons out of his allowance. But Swipes would not have been Swipes had he not told Sally Haight all about it.

When Jogger was 15 his father leaned back in his chair at the breakfast table.

"Sally," he said, "we've got to think about prep school. Shall Jogger go to my old place at Lawrenceville, or do you want him nearer home at Culver?"

Sally Haight shook her head emphatically.

"I don't want him any place but home, Jared. He's the only son we have and four years at college will be quite enough. Besides, he's doing splendidly at school here. I most certainly shall want him to be under Prof. McAvoy's influence as long as possible."

"Prof. who?" Haight stared at his wife.

"Why, Prof. McAvoy. You needn't worry at all about his being thoroughly prepared for college."

"Well, all right," Haight & Co. were having a fight with the Government, and Jared Haight, therefore, had troubles enough of his own.

One beautiful September morning at the Haight Lake Forest home Sally and her husband were seated on the veranda in their tennis flannels waiting for the man to set the net.

How to Arouse the Cook's Expectations So She'll Stay Till After Xmas.

Jogger came out of the house. He was attired in a bathing suit and wore sneakers. In his hands were a set of boxing gloves.

"Dad," he said. His face was highly colored and there was a sort of a catch in his voice. "In two weeks I leave for Princeton. Can I go out for the freshman eleven?"

Sally caught her breath. This was an issue that had been put off for several months. Jared Haight sat up straight, glancing at the boy's long thin legs and arms and the broad, bony shoulders.

"How much do you weigh, Jogger?"

"A hundred and thirty-pounds, sir."

"Well, I'll be fair. When you weigh 150 you may play football."

"But, father, I'll—I don't know that I'll ever weigh that."

"All right. Then go in for track or baseball or tennis. No football."

"Father"—The boy's voice trembled. "I know you'd say that. Well, weight isn't everything. I suppose you think because you're so big that no one is any good who"—

"Jogger!" Sally shook her head at the boy, who, however, bore on, not disrespectfully, but full of his subject.

"That no one is any good who hasn't got weight. I think, really, dad, that you're too big to get out of your way. If you're not, put on these gloves."

"What's that?" The big man looked at his son and then threw back his head; roaring with laughter.

"All right, laugh. But if you're a sport you'll come out there on the tennis court with me. You'd hate to be shown up, wouldn't you?"

Jared studied his son for a moment, then slowly rose.

"All right," he said, "give me the gloves."

"Do you think, Jared, you're in condition? You oughtn't to hurt yourself."

"Eh?" Haight stared at his wife. Then he smiled. "You quit kidding. Come on there, bantam."

As the two faced each other, one a great, hulking man, weighing 230 pounds, 6 feet tall, the other a strapping 18, Sally laughed, seeking to mitigate a tenseness in the atmosphere caused by her son's burning seriousness.

"History repeating itself. David and Goliath," she said.

"Eh, so you've been taking boxing lessons," observed the man as he noted his son's business-like stance. "Look out, there." He swung playfully at the boy.

The next instant Jared Haight had the impression of a white streak flashing in under his arm and rising close to him. The next instant something hit him under the eye. It felt as hard as a baseball.

"Hi!" Jared clinched to save another blow, and the thing his arms inclosed felt like an eel with a steel backbone. "You little"—But Jogger had wriggled loose, delivering a sharp jab under his father's ribs as he went. Jared grunted.

Sally was laughing.

"That eye, Jared. I'm afraid it's going to be black and blue."

"Never mind the eye," growled her husband.

"Get your letter?"

Home Economics

By MRS. ELIZABETH KENT.

HOME WORK.

HOME WORK.—that is the bone of many a family circle throughout the school year. Yet most teachers, especially those who have to do with the unwieldy classes of the public school in the large city, will tell you that home work is very necessary in training a child to habits of self-control and self-reliance. Except for home work, which throws a child, or should throw a child upon his own resources, school work is never really tested out in the child's own mind; he does not know what he knows until he tries to use his knowledge by himself. Therefore, parents should not give much direct help in home work; only if a child is hopelessly at sea should an elder interfere. But this does not mean that parents should not help children to study.

First of all it rests with parents almost entirely whether a child has an encouraging atmosphere at home, whether he feels that school is important, and home work a duty that takes precedence of other duties and of pleasures. It is parents who make a child feel the claim of study upon him during his school years. Then parents should see to it that a child has a comfortable, quiet, warm, well-lit and well-lighted place in which to study—and respect for the child's work—almost any home can provide these. How many do?

Lastly, parents should know enough about the home work required of a child to criticize intelligently the work of the school. This does not mean to complain when a child complains, but to know whether a child complains or not when too much is being expected of him. It means being interested and intelligent, taking some responsibility about the school which absorbs so many hours, days, years, of a child's life.

Reflections of a Bachelor Girl

By Helen Rowland

REPARTÉE: A gallon of words to a spoonful of thoughts.

There is as much difference between truly loving and just "being in love," as there is between being good and "getting religion."

When woman invented clothes, she invented romance; and every time she cuts her frock an inch lower, or trims her skirts an inch higher, she parts with a little bit more of the illusion and mystery, on which a man's romantic dreams are built.

It takes one woman 20 years to bring up her son—and another woman all the rest of his life to bring him down a little.

What a man doesn't know may not trouble him; but what a woman doesn't know causes her untold agony, until she finds it out.

Sometimes, it seems to a woman, that the only way to get any flattery or flowers from her husband is to lie down and die.

Some men are born for marriage; some achieve marriage; but all of them live in the deadly fear that marriage is going to be thrust upon them.

The thing that first shocks and then wears a man about marriage is the discovery that a woman expects him to "win" her all over again every day.

The trouble in most unhappy marriages is that the man expects too much—and the woman suspects too much.

Marriage is the door by which a woman escapes from work, from spinsterhood, from loneliness; by

His old knowledge of the art of fisticuffs was coming back to him. He deftly blocked Jogger's right-hand feint for the head with a shift and a left-hand stab at the jaw and then swung in a counter which Jogger ducked. Immediately the boy flashed in under the man's left lead and beat a tattoo upon Jared's body, ducking away from under a big right fist.

"You look out, Jogger." The father was blowing like a walrus. "Next time you come in I'm going to land you. Be warned."

Jogger, without a smile or a word, launched a left-hand lead for the head and then, suddenly turning and ducking, sent his right into the man's stomach, a blow so painful that the father, thoroughly irritated, rushed his opponent like a bull. Jogger's defense under the flailing attack was a beautiful thing to see. He ducked in an out, countered, but Jared Haight was not to be denied. A hard right-hand wallop caught the boy on the side of the head, and as Sally rushed forward she saw him catapulting into the tennis net, which he carried to the earth with him.

"Jogger!"

"Nonsense, mother." The boy had bounced to his feet like a rubber ball. "All right, father."

But Jared Haight, who had observed the effects of his blow with apprehension bordering on panic, was taking off his gloves.

"Sure you're all right, Jogger?"

"Certainly I am. What's the matter?"

"Nothing, Jogger; nothing at all." He hesitated. "If you want to play football at Princeton it's all right so far as I am concerned."

In the rear of the Osborn Field house at Princeton is a fine stretch of turf, a section of university field annually devoted to the candidates for the freshman team. As Jogger, who had dressed in his room in one of the freshman dormitories, came upon the field he paused irresolutely, his hands clenching and unclenching nervously. Before him were boys garbed in the jerseys and stockings of almost every preparatory school of which he had ever heard.

So these were freshmen! How big, in sooth, must varsity men be! For the chests of most of these boys were like barrels; their legs tapering beautifully at the ankles reminded him of the underpinning of the grand piano at home. The 132 pounds of which he had been so proud dwindled infinitesimally. He felt weak and puny. Feverishly, as though it were a ritual, he murmured the words of Swipes McAvoy:

"It's all in the mind, kid. All in the mind. If you won't be beat, you can't be beat."

He walked out on the field to where the coach was assorting his material into linemen and backs, kickers and the like. He was a powerfully built man with a shock of red hair, and he wore his varsity sweater inside out. He glanced at Jogger with obvious interest.

"Where you from?" he asked.

"Dean School in Indiana, sir."

"Get your letter?"

"Yes, sir; that is, I was put in games to kick drop kicks."

"Good at that, eh?" The coach's voice was raveling out.

"Pretty good, sir."

"All right, I'll try you out some time." The coach turned away to speak to a candidate. He never did try Jogger out. He forgot all about him. For a week he came down to the field and hung around, and then one day when a list of cuts from the squad was posted in the dressing room, Jogger's name led all the rest.

He kept this fact out of his letters to his mother, but, like all wise mothers, she read between the lines.

"You know, so," she wrote, "the men who succeed in this world are the men who believe so firmly in themselves that they make others believe in them, too. You can at least kick. You know that. You inherit ability to do this, and you've improved upon it. You know what you can do, and I know—whether that old coach knows it or not. Your father withdrew his objections to having you play after that rough house you and he had last summer, when you had him puffing. So that was the hardest part of your battle; I mean winning him over. See if you can't win that coach. Does he know you're the son of Jogger Haight?"

Jogger dropped the letter, flushing.

"I don't know whether he knows it or not. Anyway, I'll never tell him. I'll stand on my own feet if I can stand at all."

It was the week before the game against the Yale freshmen. He put on his uniform, which he had not worn for nearly two months, and went to the field. The coach, an old felt hat pulled down over his eyes, was fussing with the tackling dummy.

"Mr. Sprague"—Jogger cleared his throat.

"You don't remember me?"

"No, I don't."

"Well, sir, my name is Haight. I don't want to be fresh, but I've been watching the practice, and I've seen all the games. You've got a good back field."

"Thanks for the information," was the dry rejoinder.

"But," pressed on Jogger, "you ned a drop kicker."

"I'll say we do, son. Can you drop kick?"

"Try me, sir."

Sprague hesitated and then, picking up a ball, walked out to the 25-yard line, where, with an underhand motion, he spiraled the ball to Jogger, standing a yard or two back of the 30-yard mark. The ball whistled through the goal posts like a bullet. Sprague's face was noncommittal as he motioned Jogger to a point 15 yards to one side of center. Again the ball described a true course over the cross bar. From the 40-yard line Jogger shot seven out of 10 goals at all angles.

"That'll do," Sprague's voice was genial now. "We'll see what you can do from scrimmage later."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Rusty Is Troubled.

RUSTY the Fox Squirrel and Farmer Brown's Boy were the best of friends. Rusty was soon to be wholly recovered from the terrible wound made by the cruel shot from the hunter. Farmer Brown's Boy saw this and was glad. He had grown very fond of Rusty, and if the truth be told Rusty had grown very fond of Farmer Brown's Boy. How could he feel otherwise when Farmer Brown's Boy had done so much for him?

Never before in all his life had Rusty had so many good things to eat. Never before had he had so much to eat. Farmer Brown's Boy visited him many times a day, and never did he fail to bring him some ever had seen, for Rusty was a Fox Squirrel, and the Fox Squirrel is the largest member of the tree-climbing branch of the Squirrel family.

For some time Rusty was contented, but as he began to feel quite himself again he began to be troubled. He had plenty to eat and nothing to worry about, so far as enemies were concerned, but just the same he began to be troubled. All his life he had been free to go where he would when he would, and now he couldn't go anywhere. He was in a cage, and there was no way of getting out of that cage. There in Farmer Brown's barn it was very warm and comfortable, while outside Rough Brother North Wind often howled, for it was winter now. Rusty felt that he ought to be thankful to be so well taken care of. Still he was troubled. He was a prisoner, a prisoner of kindness, so be sure, but a prisoner just the same.

He began to long to climb a tree, to hunt for the fat hickory nuts he had buried in the Green Forest, to feel that he could go and come as he pleased. He was growing homesick, yes, sir, Rusty was growing homesick for the Green Forest. Sometimes he heard the voice of Sammy Jay as Sammy sat in a tree near the barn, and that always made him more homesick than ever. Day by day he grew more troubled as he grew stronger. Would he always have to live in that cage? Was Farmer Brown's Boy planning to keep him a prisoner all his life? The more he thought about it the more troubled he became. It caused him to lose his appetite. Somehow he didn't taste as good as they had in the beginning. He fidgeted to run and jump, and he couldn't; there wasn't room in that cage. He wondered what his saucy, quarrelsome, small cousin, Chatterer the Red Squirrel, was doing and if he had found that store of fat hickory nuts hidden in the old stump near the hickory tree. He felt that he would give anything to be free just to run over there and see.

So Rusty grew more and more troubled, and the fact that every day he was stronger didn't help any. The stronger he grew the more troubled he became. Farmer Brown's Boy noticed it and understood. But still he kept Rusty a prisoner.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

THE ONLY ONE OF HIS KIND.

When bound by labor's cruel chain
We've wilted down our collars,
We've wished—and always wished in vain—
We had a million dollars.
Our gift for finance isn't strong,
We knew we'd never make it;
But if it ever came along
We felt quite sure we'd take it.

For money means a life of ease,
Of rare luxuries shirking—
To do exactly what we please
And never think of working—
Of motor cars and motor boats
And nightly games of freeze-out,
And spiffy fur-lined overcoats
To keep the winter breeze out.

We never dreamed the time would come
When one, with power to choose it,
Would sternly frown on such a sum
And bitterly refuse it.
Yet of a Boston youth we hear
Who, madder than a hornet,
When offered all that coin, can sneer,
"Take back your gold; I scorn it."

He may be right to spurn the cash,
This blunt New England scoffer;
It may be wrong, it may be rash,
To snap at such an offer.
His knowledge of the world may be
As deep as mine, or deeper,
And yet most folks will think that he Is needful of a keeper.
